Mrs. Ernest Rogers from Farmington, a small town near Edinburgh, Scotland, is visiting here with her visiting friends while grandparents journeyed on to their home in Eastis, Fla.

Rev. Graham is the Field Representative of the Great Lakes Region for the National Association of Evangelists. When Rev. Graham's ministerial work was asked what they would like for a wedding gift?

His decision was that if grandmothers could attend the wedding, they couldn't ask for a nicer wedding present. So, even though her last visit was as recent as Christmas time, she made arrangements to be here for the wedding. Mrs. Rogers is also the lady that makes those yummy, melt-in-your-mouth shortbread cookies.

KAYLIN GRAMAM, the 12-year-old daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Paul Gramam is spending two weeks with friends in Uniontown, Pa. During the visit other grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. 1-5422 lation of 10,000 in the City. Mrs. Quinn said that a high percentage of the eligible residents had registered. She pointed out that her office had registered only 77 new voters during the most recent registration period.

Murphy noted that in 1960 52 percent of the County's residents were registered to vote, while four years later the figure stood at 40 percent. Today only 40 percent of the County's residents are eligible.

The number of eligible voters in the County stood at 321,257 last April, while 355,593 were registered in Nov., 1960 and 355,593 in Nov., 1964.

"Citizen participation may be a favorite phrase of an Oakland County politician," Murphy said, "but citizen participation in the electoral process in the county has been steadily declining for the last six years."

"This alarming decline should be reversed," Murphy emphasized. "And it can be if civic groups, interested citizens, and both political parties roll up their sleeves and do their part to see that a majority of Oakland County's citizens are once again registered to vote."

THE WENDELL BROWN Election Committee is presenting a Buffet Dinner Dance at Glenn Oaks Country Club. There will be entertainment, door prizes and a promise of no political speeches. Tickets are $10 per couple and reservations may be made by calling the Ticket Chairman, Monica Hug at MA 6-3236 or Barb Last at GR 4-0436.

THAT PHONE BILL at the Mock's is going to be a rational debt by the time two months elapse. With no preparations, Carol Mock, 23-year-old daughter of Robert and Ruth Mock, took off for a two month tour of Europe. She plans on spending her time with the hotel guests. On her itinerary of countries to see are Greece, Italy, Germany, Yugoslavia and then whatever countries she might have time to see.

Carol, though she taught speech therapy to handicapped children last year in Adrian, is still taking extra courses at U. of M. to better equip her in the teaching profession.

His daughter-in-law and grandchildren, Mrs. George Williams, Gail, Gwen and Gregg, helped Arthur Williams celebrate his birthday. Dorothy, his wife says that Arthur has three interests in life — in this order: Ford Motor Co., his dog, Fella and his wife.

City Is Expensive

Douglas Warren, 3318 Grand River, Farmington, has discovered that the City of Farmington can be an expensive spot to have a party. Municipal Judge Michael J. Hand found Warren guilty of being drunk and disorderly in the City last week and fined him $15 plus $10 in court costs or sentenced him to two days in jail if he did not pay the fine.

Industrial Plan Gets Township Recognition

A former Farmington resident, Gerald J. Yurk, was named as winner of the Farmington Freeway Industrial Park competition co-sponsored by the Township's Industrial Development Commission and the Lawrence Institute Architectural and Design School.

For his proposed development of the Park, Yurk received a check for $150 from the Industrial Development Commission and a desk set trophy from the Thompson Brown Company. The contest was open to members of this year's senior class at the Architectural and Design School.

The total site which the class planned was 640 acres. Five different areas had to be incorporated into the project in order to be considered. These were: privately owned plant properties; an industrial rental building; an industrial service center; a commercial center and a motel.

Yurk broke his plan down in the following manner: 432 acres for privately owned plant properties allowing for approximately 114 plants.

The industrial lease space occupied 72 acres and was clustered about a central parking deck. In this area trucks were brought into the lower level with the manufacturing area of each firm on the lower level.

as well as planned, special events for each day. Many celebrities from Lansing, Hollywood, Detroit, and surrounding areas will participate.

Final judging to select the Miss Founders Festival Queen will begin at 5:30 p.m. at Boltsford Inn. Three judges, Mrs. Kay Britton of Broadway fame, Mrs. Virginia Latham, advertising manager for Demery's Department Stores; and Jack Reed, owner of an entertainment booking agency, will select the Queen from a group of more than 20 young ladies—all single, between the ages of 17 and 22, and residents of Farmington.

A motorcycle will leave Boltsford Inn shortly after 8 p.m. and proceed to the Village Green at Grand River Avenue and Farmington Rd.

The industrial service center included a conference room, a small banquet hall with catering facilities, administrative offices for the entire area and offices for lease by consulting engineering firms. Also included in the 12½ acres was a service center for trucks and an industrial machinery supply, sales and service area.

A heliport was also provided for in this area.

The shopping center, which occupied a total of 27½ acres, included shops, a theatre, a bowling alley, and a restaurant.

The motel was a twin tower 12-story high rise with 200 units.

Throughout the plan Yurk separated the car and truck traffic and stated that he made an effort to preserve the existing plants of Futurmill and Diamond

Automation in the plan.

William W. Bowman, chairman of the Township's Industrial Development Commission, said that "I feel very strongly that although some of the things that have been suggested in the studies are not financially feasible and practical there are many thoughts and ideas that may be stimulated from these efforts."
