Gas Provides Cooling Agent

Another entry for the "Leave It to American Know-how" notebook: Now they're cooling the air with a gas flame.

It may sound a little chilling, but the paradox is explained by the fact that since air conditioning equipment needs a source of energy, natural gas can provide this source as well as it can for warmth or cooking.

Still a fairly new development, gas cooling systems in use now number more than 100,000, twice the amount of a year ago, reports the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association (GAMA).

Home buyers have welcomed this equipment, GAMA said, because of its simplicity and economy of operation. The only moving part is the blower apparatus.

Use Soap, Detergent To Clean Aluminum

The Aluminum Association approves washing with soap or detergent suds to clean aluminum window frames and other home surfaces.

It is best to rub in the direction of the finished grain, and to take special care with the finished aluminum which has no grain.

Use a bristle brush to apply the suds on patterned surfaces.

After rinsing, wipe dry with a clean cloth.

Waterproof Saucers Easy Bird Baths

New waterproof clay saucers in sizes from 6 inches to 16 inches make easy bird baths, as well as companion pieces for clay-potted plants. They can be set on terraces, steps or lawns, or glued to fence post tops.

Try New Kitchen Design Is Work "Triangle" Causing Troubles?

Is happiness in your home being threatened by a triangle?

Then maybe you ought to do something about it.

The triangle that most often ripples the waters of domestic tranquility is not caused by "another woman," but by an inefficient work pattern in the kitchen that can make a woman tired and cranky from sheer overwork, and ready to fight with her husband when he comes home.

The man to solve the family's problem is not a marriage counselor but an understanding kitchen designer who knows that a motion-saving work triangle can conserve time, steps and energy in meal preparation and kitchen cleanups.

The points of the "work triangle" are formed by the kitchen sink and dishwasher area, range and refrigerator-freezer—the three main work centers of the kitchen.

The sum of the three legs of this triangle should be at least 15 feet (less than that will result in an overcrowded work pattern) and no more than 22 feet (more than that will cause the homemaker unnecessary motion and effort).

U-shaped and L-shaped kitchens are the most efficient, because appliances, cabinets and work areas can all be located within easy reach.

One-wall layouts or "corridor" plans (where two facing walls are used) are less efficient, but circumstances sometimes dictate their use.

If the kitchen has a window, Wood Wears Well

Solid lumber house siding will outlast the home's owners by a generation or two. Wood wears away, through action of rain and dust abrasion, at the maximum rate of a quarter-inch a century.

If the doors to your refrigerator-freezer open to the right, place it to the right of the sink. If they open to the left, you'll want it to the left of the sink.

Otherwise, you'll be walking around the refrigerator and freezer doors all the time. For most efficiency, provide five to five-and-a-half feet of counter space between refrigerator-freezer and sink.

The third leg of the triangle is formed by the range. Preferably, it should be located near the dining area.

The new electric ranges are available in a wide variety of styles—free-standing, eye-level consoles, high-low double-oven ranges, separate cooktops and compact, one-piece built-in ranges—to suit any need.

There Is a Difference

When a recipe calls for "stewed" tomatoes, buy that variety to use. Some cooks confuse stewed tomatoes with plain canned tomatoes; the former are packed with bits of onion and green pepper and are well seasoned. The stewed tomatoes come in 4-ounce cans and also in buffet cans to serve two.
