The bride came down the aisle on the arm of her uncle, Frank Hamilton, wearing a floor length gown of white lace over a hoop skirt; her veil was attached to a crown tiara of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with one white orchid in the center.

Denise Dalton, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor; Helen White and Nancy Mayer were her bridesmaids. All three attendants wore identical floor length gowns of yellow brocade with an empire style bodice and back drape, and matching short veils. Let's Talk Fashion with

June Simpson

Those wonderful livable days we have enjoyed with the temperature below the mid-nineties have wrought a change in our fashion temperature. Have you noticed? There is not the same tendency to scurry past the fashion windows — banked high with fascinating new fashions for the first cool days of Fall.

A little early? Perhaps. But, we're much more in the mood to look—and there is much to see. One thing is for certain—the hemlines have not budged an inch. Just above the knee and mid-knee predominate in all of the important Fall collections.

The big items in any wardrobe is the coat and suit, and, it is probably the fashion additions which give rise to our most thoughtful consideration. Your year for a new coat? Lucky you!

There is a new big, beautiful and bold look to Fall coats. Dior started it with the pup tent, and one sees the "big" impact in coats in every fashion direction. In your coat fashion for Fall YOU pick the length, and each length has a new fresh look. Choose a tunic-inspired ¾-length, the easy wrapped ⅝-coat, or join the rally to the pup tent fashion in the short, full seven-eighths length. One thing is apparent, the coat silhoutte is breezier and fuller, the newest look since Givenchy's sparse lean look.

Fabrics? You'll love 'em! For the gal who takes her fashion on the enduring side—the most endearing fashion fabrics are the fabrics with built-in "shape" retention. Permanently bonded to look good on a coat hanger—and to stay good looking on its active wearer.

The favored fabrics have a familiar ring. You'll find the pampering beauty of brushed wool and mohair fleece, disciplined gabardine, covert and twill. Melton cloth and flat tweeds add to the look of fashion done with a knowing hand, seen frequently with a definite military "air."

Colors are as bright as a Fall landscape. Reds run the entire spectrum from exciting hot pinks and cherry reds
