

Basic Courses Offered For Eligible Adults

Wayne Community School District's Continuing Education Center for all out-of-school persons 18 years old or older will register students for the fall schedule on Monday through Thursday, Sept. 12-15, announced director Nathan C. Shaw.

The director stressed that the three ten-week schedules, which are free to all eligible adults, will start the week of Sept. 26.

The program for those who have an eighth grade education or less, is designed to allow adults to enlarge their basic education in reading, speaking, writing, listening, arithmetic, and other adult skills such as vocational upgrading, health practices, human relations, home and family living, consumer knowledge, and citizenship.

Shaw also emphasized that the courses are open to non-residents of the Wayne Community district, which covers most of Westland, and foreign-born adults who are not American citizens.

The $36,000 cost of the program will have 90 per cent of it borne by the federal government's Economic Opportunity Act with the school district paying the remaining ten per cent.

The registration will be held from 7-9 p.m. Sept. 12 through 15 at Wayne Memorial High School.

Let Sun Do It

Nature makes the most practical finish for a wood deck or for fencing. Wind and sun bleach wood beautifully, whether or not the wood has been preservative-treated. Western red cedar weathers to a prized silver shade. Douglas fir is equally pretty, but has less luster, attaining more the soft shading of fine pewter.

Tuesday's schedule includes ballroom dance, bridge, cake decorating, chess club, choir, fencing, men's gym, oil painting, philosophy, sewing, swim and trim for women, and conversational Spanish.

Wednesday evening activities planned are adult band, badminton, basketball for eighth grade boys and up, business machines, basic electricity, scuba diving, short-hand I and II, and the TOPS Club (Take off pounds sensibly).

Thursday, classes include basketball, driver education, folk guitar, knitting I, modern math, senior citizen and swim class for women.

In addition, credits for high school classes are offered. If you have not received a high school diploma, you may do so, with free tuition.
