An industrial arts teacher at Marshall Junior High School in Westland, Kenneth Heim, was one of 30 who recently completed a course at the State University College, Oswego, N.Y.

Heim was among industrial arts teachers from all over the country who were selected to be in the Oswego Institute under the National Defense Education Act. More than 800 applied for appointments to the industrial arts institute.

During the program which lasted from July 3 through last Friday, the teachers visited selected industries in several states as well as developed curriculum in specialized areas of the arts to use in their own schools.

Heim has a bachelor's degree from Northern Michigan University and a master's degree from University of Michigan.

Orchestra Slates Open Rehearsals

Four open rehearsals will be held by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra during its forthcoming subscription season in Ford Auditorium.

Proceeds will benefit the Orchestra musicians' supplemental pension fund.

Soloists at the special rehearsals will be pianist Malcolm Frager on Oct. 5, Orchestral members obolists, Robert Pangborn on Oct. 16, and violinist Charles Tesser on Feb. 8. The final open rehearsal, on April 5, will include preparation for the world premiere of a work by Paul Creston, on commission from the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Open rehearsals begin at 2 p.m. in Ford Auditorium. Tickets are $1.50 each or $5 for the series and mail orders are now being accepted at Ford Auditorium box office.

Farmington Players Set Ticket Sales

Due to a story released by the Farmington Players Publicity within the last few weeks, there has been much confusion about the number of shows Players patrons will be able to see for the price of a season ticket.

Ticket Chairman Harry Kozera reports that many calls have been received to request season tickets which will be available Sept. 1, and that the previous story resulted in a misunderstanding.

The season tickets will include only the usual three productions for the price of $4 for Fridays and Sundays and $5 for Saturdays. With the purchase of a season ticket, patrons will be able to purchase a ticket for "Othello" at $1. The usual Box Office prices of $1.50 per ticket for Fridays and Sundays and $2 for Saturdays are still in effect for all four of the major productions for this coming season. "Othello" will play four performances.

JOSEPH PAPP, who adapted "Othello" for the upcoming Farmington Players production, will appear in the title role. The play opens Oct. 7 in the Players Barn on 12 Mile Rd.

producing two children's shows which are entirely separate from the regular season. "Many Moons" which is done entirely by female Players and "Alice in Wonderland" which will be done by Hope Nahstoll's children. Tickets for these two shows are priced at $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. The dates for these shows are as follows: "Alice", 7:30 p.m., Sept. 16, 23, 30, also 11 a.m., Sept. 17, 24 and Oct. 1. "Many Moons", 1 p.m. and 3 p.m., Sept. 17, 24 and Oct. 1. Tickets may be had in advance of the performance by calling either Tom or Henry Kozera at 628-2533.

The three major productions which comprise the season ticket package are "No, No, Nanette", a comedy which will play three weeks ending Nov. 18, "Death of a Salesman" also playing

AAUW Gals Seek Old Books

Do you have any books stashed away in a closet, attic, or garage just gathering dust? It happens in the best of families. Children grow up, interests change, new books come on the market. Inevitably some of your old favorites end up in storage.

Let's face it — many of these books have little chance of appearing on the family book shelf again. Why not let someone else enjoy them?

At the present time, members of the Farmington AAUW are busy collecting an assortment of reading material for their annual Used Book Sale scheduled for Sept. 29, 30, and Oct. 1.

They will be glad to call at your home. By phoning Mrs. David Mills, 474-2775, or Mrs. R. M. Gringer, 474-5135, you can bring pickup service to your door. Or if you like, you may deposit your books in a special box at the Farmington Library.

This sale of used books has become a popular event in the community. The selection of books is varied and prices are kept to a minimum. Proceeds from the sale are donated to the Farmington Library, and a fund set up by the American Association of University Women to provide financial aid to women continuing their graduate studies.

Here is an opportunity to help others and yourself at the same time.

Theatre Guild Opens Season

The new season for the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford will swing into action with its annual Open House at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 8, at the Newburg Hall, located at Newburg Road and Ann Arbor Trail.

The Open House will be highlighted by a performance of "A Marriage Proposal," the classic comedy by Anton Chekov. This one-act farce is popular and funny. The story tells of the exasperating efforts of a nervous and sensitive gentleman who starts to propose to an attractive young neighbor woman, but becomes involved in a tremendous quarrel over boundary lines. The play concludes with a hilarious scene of the two men, Howard Egan and Jim Wolzberg. The latter directs the lively production.

Also in the evening's events will be brief comments on the coming Guild plays, which will open with the lauded musical "Oliver." This late November show will be followed by "Come Back Little Sheba" and "A Shot in the Dark."

Try-outs for "Oliver" will be held Sept. 11th at 2:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. Casting call is open to the public at the Newburg Hall.

An extra bonus has been voted for Subscription Members this year. A saving of 25% over previous years has reduced the price of this special membership to $4.50 single and $9.00 per couple. Subscription members are admitted free to all three major productions and the children's show. They also are invited to Guild social events.

In a further move to curb inflation, the new Board of Directors has reduced the Junior Guild annual fee to $3. This group includes members under age 21.

Belle Isle Concerts Set Free concert featuring the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Valter Poon, will be at the Belle Isle Museum this week night except Thursday. The programs are completed of classical, pop, and showtune works. Concerts begin at 8:30.

Thurber Play Slated at Barn

With tongue in cheek, James Thurber wrote the story of a bumbling king whose daughter, the lovely, little princess was ill and no one could find out what ailed her—not even the royal wisemen. They thought she was yearning for a different kind of tart which she loved and they sent all over the world for every kind of tart but none of them helped. It was a lowly member of the court who found out what would make the princess well.

The dramatic version of this story will unfold on the stage of the Farmington Players' Barn Sept. 17, 24 and Oct. 1 at 1 and 3 p.m.

Featured as the king is Katherine Kormesner and as her wisemen, Joanne Kaman as the lord high chamberlain; Perle Briggs as the royal wizard and Leonard Kirk as the royal mathematician. Tickets may be reserved by calling Fran Kozera at 626-2633.

Carmen L. Dell'Quadrif of Houghton, a member of the faculty at Michigan Technological University, is the only member of the State Board of Education from the Upper Peninsula.

Livonia Jaycees To Host City Hole-in-One

The Livonia Jaycees have announced they will host a city-wide hole-in-one contest, Sept. 16, 17 and 18. Any person who can swing a golf club is invited to attend this event and try their skill at winning one of the many prizes being donated by the merchants around town.

The cost of the event is three (3) shots for a dollar with all monies received going for the many community-wide projects that the Jaycees carry out each year.

These projects include various programs for youth and sports, community development and service projects, Christmas activities for underprivileged children, mental health and education programs for the elderly and many other worthy projects that the Jaycees can serve a need.

The event will be held at the Oasis Driving Range, located at Five Mile Road at Pickle Road, Plymouth. Starting at 10 a.m. each day and continuing till closing.

Change Location

Mercy College of Detroit will open its 1966-67 Artists Series Sunday, Sept. 25 in Ford Auditorium rather than in McAuley Auditorium as originally planned. The change was necessitated by the advance demand for the opening number on the series, John Gary, singer and television featured performer. Both season and single tickets are available at Hudson's, Grinnell's, Ford Auditorium and Mercy College.

Old Car Festival Draws Hundreds

The colorful panorama of the early days of motoring in America will be reborn at the Greenfield Village during the Old Car Festival, Sept. 10-11.

More than 300 automobiles, all built before 1927, will be brought to the Village from 17 states, the District of Columbia and Canada. Almost every make and description of car from the pioneer years of motoring will be judged for authenticity and beauty of restoration.

Visitors to the Village, and camera fans in particular, will have a field day snapping pictures and taking movies of the oldtimers in action. Steam, electricity and gasoline will provide the power for the cars, many of whose drivers will be dressed in costumes reflective of the era of the cars. Bustles, dusters, flapper dresses, goggles and gauntlets will reappear along with the revival of automotive names of the past like Winston, Hupmobile, Duryea, Franklin and many others.

The picturesque setting of the 260-acre outdoor museum with its many historic homes and shops lends itself ideally to this best of all antique automobile events.

Festival will be filled with competition between the entrants. Tests of skill in such art as cranking, starting, stopping, slow-driving, and balloon breaking will challenge the owners of the antiques. A special feature of the Festival will be performed.

Also in the evening's events will be brief comments on the coming Guild plays, which will open with the lauded musical "Oliver."

Try-outs for "Oliver" will be held Sept. 11th at 2:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. Casting call is open to the public at the Newburg Hall.

An extra bonus has been voted for Subscription Members this year. A saving of 25% over previous years has reduced the price of this special membership to $4.50 single and $9.00 per couple.
