THOUGH IT ISN'T noted on the calendar, unofficially, fall has its beginning. We saw the first signs last week when we noticed that many of the trees along Hines Parkway are donning their fall apparel. And their golden colors are second in beauty only in the "safety" yellow of the school buses—whose arrival in the neighborhood is usually the surest, and often the most welcome sign of summer's demise.

LIKE THE NEIGHBORS who held a Street Party last week, to review summer's memories and relay the many plans "beginning this fall..." Hubbard was roped off between Elmira and Orange-lawn, and with the arrangements for food and entertainment handled by Jo Cole and Karen Mayo, this fourth annual neighborhood potluck dinner was a fitting and fun farewell to a long, hot summer.

"A GOOD VACATION IT WASN'T" was Joan Duggan's reply to our query about her recent trip from Whitby St. to Cleveland, O. She said, "With all due respect to kind and well-intentioned relatives, 'nightmare' is more the description that comes to mind.

"Picture this—me with my five little boys, my twin sister with her seven young-sters, and the oldest of the 12 children is nine years old. A shattering vision, right?"

"We tried going visiting (and needless to say the invitations were few)—but after the initial venture we scuttled that idea so that we wouldn't return home entirely friendless. Then my sister and I tried just chat-ting.

"When we had accepted that too as being futile, my dear husband Pat, though hating to leave a nice quiet home, drove down and res-cued us from total madness. And my sister and I agreed to forego similar 'pleasures' un-til the kids are in their early twenties, unless we can ar-range for a smaller traveling troupe of our family circus."

"BUT THE BEACH BASH at Muskegon last weekend, that's what real vacations are made of," according to Joan.

And husband Pat Duggan agrees, as do fellow-Jaycee and Jaycette members from NEWEST PIECE OF PLAYGROUND equipment at the Plymouth Children's Nursery is the "Fun House." Constructed by fathers, it has countless uses with its slides, cubby holes, "rooms," ladders, bars, steering wheel, doors and windows.

Time to Enroll

If you have a four-to-five-year-old youngster you want to enroll in nursery school this fall, the Plymouth Children's Nursery, Inc. has openings. The nursery, a co-operative, also has a waiting list for three-year-olds.

The children attending the nursery have an opportunity to play with other children their own age and to explore materials, settings, and situa-tions. Among the areas covered by the nursery school are music, arts and crafts, science, field trips, and outdoor activities.

An orientation program is scheduled for September to acquaint all parents with the routine and purpose of the nursery school.

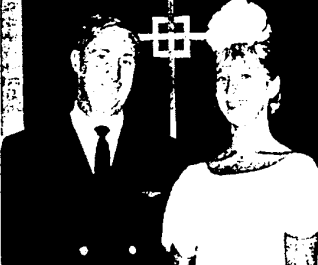

Further information and registration blanks may be obtained from Mrs. James Sonnaga, 453-6089 or Mrs. Lawrence Venaska, 453-6440.
