

Schools Display Student Art

Farmington public schools will exhibit student work from the elementary grades May 7, through May 20, in the store windows next to the Civic Theatre on Grand River. The exhibit, according to Robert Benjamin, art consultant, will be typical of the work done in the more than 325 Elementary classrooms in Farmington.

Although it was impossible to exhibit something from each of the more than 8000 students, the exhibit will show the scope and achievement of the Farmington elementary students and the depth achieved in their study of the fine arts.

child's need and development, Benjamin said.

Wins New Orleans Trip

Jack Sheridan, agent for the Don Heinen Agency of Detroit, Michigan, attended the Federal Life Insurance Company (Mutual) President's Council Meeting held in New Orleans, April 25, through April 29. He resides at 28403 Alyce Key, Farmington.

GRADES ONE THROUGH THREE at St. Fabian's school are entertained by Farmington's Women's Chorus, the Kendallarks.

The singing group is winding up a busy season of appearances before many of the area's organizations.

Kendallarks Warble For Enchanted Young Group

The Kendallarks, a Farmington women's chorus under the direction of George Assemany, sang to a most delightful audience at St. Fabian's school. The captive audience were the children grades 1 through 3, and were entertained by the chorus singing Chalmers Chorus, Do Be Me, Hello Dolly and Pass Me By.

The Kendall Tone Trio, Marlowe Belanger, Sue McCallum and Marion Spencer in brightly colored sashes sang Yellow Bird accompanied by Olga Miller, Betty O'Connor and Bea Seaglione. Childish giggles were heard when Marion Spencer as Sandman came out to do Mr. Sandman with Margaret Marlowe and Mary Martin in a song and dance routine.

The ever-popular Hooten Anjies sang several songs with the children joining in loud and clear on This Land is Your Land. Then Bea Seaglione was greatly enjoyed as she played musical games with the children. All in all it was hard to tell who enjoyed themselves more the children or the Kendallarks.

The Kendallarks will be

It is nice to see John Pearce up and around again. All of us hope his complete recovery is a speedy one.

It was a big wide wonderful world for Doris Petrucci a few weeks ago. She and a friend Joan Gariepy spent a five-day holiday in New York City.

Traveling there by rail they arrived at their destination, the Americana Hotel. The highlights of the trip would be in-cluding without a doubt to the spectacular show Funny Girl with Mimi Hines and also Cactus Flower with Lauren Bacall.
