She leaves three daughters, Mrs. E. B. Merritt, Mrs. E. L. Vincent and Miss Mabel Mariton.

The second come-All Ye was the biggest thing ever in Redford. It is the crowd's acknowledgment that the crowd numbered the old Redford fair attendance even in its most prosperous days. The streets were thick with a surging mass of good-natured humanity all day and long in the evening. People came from the farms for a long distance in every direction and hundreds came from adjoining villages. Even Detroit poured several carloads into our little town while the side streets looked like an automobile demonstration.

The people were with us in our endeavor to give a good, clean celebration and as far as known they went away fully satisfied that for a town of its size and the limited scope of its opportunities to secure funds, the show was all, and more, than could be expected.

The leading features of the day were the ball games and the parade.

Over 1500 people witnessed the ball games and they certainly got their money's worth with big interest.

The two teams went into the game with a determination to win and with the players they had both exhibitions were grand ones. No better ones are ever seen outside of the big league parks. They were close enough to create intense interest and to bring the crowd up on their toes when an especially good play was made or when the players were in a tight position.

The parade created a lot of merriment and it certainly was funny. A lot of new and original features had been added and there were many unique trophies that baffled description, but made fun for the crowds. The line of march was so planned that everybody got three views of the procession.

The thanks of the crowd are certainly due the members of both bands for the generous amount, as well as the quality, of the music that they furnished. Their contract did not call for a continuous performance on their part but they all very kindly entered into the spirit of the occasion and were always ready with a tune whenever there was an opening and it certainly was a great aid to the success of the event. The Northville band boys are among friends whenever they come to Redford. The smaller sports were pulled off in a rapid manner and were won as follows: 100 Yard Dash—Schaul 1st and Cameron 2nd

Potato Race—Knowles 1st and Buchanan 2nd
Young Ladies' Race—Trene McKiuney 1st; Mabel Douglas, 2nd
Foot Men's Race—Brown 1st, Burt 2nd

Sack Race—Jamison 1st, D. Holcomb 2nd
Girls' Race—Ethel Ormiston 1st, Ethel Newman 2nd
Boys' Race—Ivor Griffith 1st, Clarence Gardner 2nd

Night Show Race—Clarence King 1st, 2nd, 3rd
The affair was the second event of its kind, but will not be the last for Redford loves to entertain the people and will continue these celebrations each year, always striving to make each of them bigger and better than the one preceding.

The dogs and ponies are trained to perfection and do some wonderfully clever work, of a refined character that is both educating and amusing to the children and highly entertaining for the grown folks.—Sturgis, M. # Sure to Be Michigan's Greatest Exposition

This Year's State Fair Bound to Prove the Biggest and Best Ever Staged in the Wolverine State.

WHEN the portals of the Michigan State Fair roll back on Sept. 15 it will mark the opening of the sixty-fourth annual holiday of the Wolverine State and incidentally usher in the most complete and best-balanced exposition ever presented in the west.

With an array of attractions never before exhibited in the west and the show buildings erected to the grandest and most modern standards, the fair will be surpassed and the BIG FAIR will be known as the nearest approach to a perfect community garden ever staged, there will be exhibited the handwork of Michigan's soil, hands and brains—the agricultural and industrial wealth of the richest commonwealth in the Union, displayed in a highly attractive manner.

Not only will there be exhibitors, but there will also be actual practical working demonstrations which will add both to the fun and to the profit of the people's holiday. The aim of the Michigan State Fair of 1913 is not merely to amuse, but to instructively entertain and educate.

More than ever this year the State Fair will be the people's holiday—the state's big educational outing. It has taken a lot of money to build this about $100,000 in premiums and prizes being hung up to secure attractions and act as a magnet for exhibitors.

This huge sum has attracted the leading live stock, vehicle and industrial exhibitors in America and abroad, it has attracted the best of the state's big educational outfit. It has taken a lot of money to build this about $100,000 in premiums and prizes being hung up to secure attractions and act as a magnet for exhibitors.

Remember that Sept. 15-20 are the days set apart for the big commonwealth reunion, and it is your duty to contribute your part to the success of the same by being present.

ANIMAL SHOW ENGAGED.

Wortham and Allen's Organization to Give Daily Performances. Wortham and Allen's Organization of Adrenal Shows have been secured at the big cost for this year's Michigan State Fair Sept. 15-20. It is a guarantee of every big fair management because it furnishes clean and wholesome amusements.

The Wortham and Allen feature an animal parade. It is the most interesting circus at the same time and a circus that is instructive as well as interesting. The famous troupe of trained animals, which always furnish no end of delight to the children, will be more comprehensive than ever. These parties will be held to entertain and to educate. The show will be held in the big commonwealth reunion, and it is your duty to contribute your part to the success of the same by being present.

Fair's Policy

By the Hon. D. D. AITKEN, President of the Michigan State Fair.

EVERY scientist that in order to effectively reduce the cost of raising the farmer's crop he must be in possession of the best methods of raising the crop. It measures for in order to be profitable the farmer must be in possession of the best methods of raising the crop.

Democratization work is the mission of the Michigan State Fair and just how well it performs its mission is up to its patrons. We may secure all the best experts and the best methods for the farmer to use, but unless we have the means of disseminating the same to the farmer, the work is of no value. Democratization of ways and means of improved farming has been of immediate benefit in enlarging the annual yield.

The idea that the Michigan State Fair is a place to "show to and hawk" around, lose a few things at the circus see the races and go home, is an unprogressive one. Don't get me wrong on this.

All these things are instructively entertaining that is what we have them there for. No one is a farmer believer in the time honored axiom that "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" than I am. It is the combination of education and pleasure that we aim for.

This year when you come to the Fair talk with the successful men in your special line of endeavor. Ask them what methods they used to produce such fine, sleek stock as they have on exhibition. They will be proud to tell you if you are sociable enough to inquire. Talk to the implement men. They will explain the good points of their outfits.

Look around and see if there isn't something you could add to your household equipment which would make the duties of your wife lighter. We want the Michigan State Fair to be a benefit to the entire family. We want it to be the family concordance. When we have accomplished these things we will have the greatest situation for educational good extent. We can only do this with the whole united co-operation of the people of the state of Michigan.

THE MAN BEHIND.

GENERAL MANAGER GEORGE W. DICKINSON, WHO IS DOING MUCH TO MAKE THIS YEAR'S MICHIGAN STATE FAIR A RECORD BREAKER IN EVERY RESPECT.
