

Postwar Baby Crop Now Makes Presence Known in New Homes

The postwar baby crop of 1946-47 is making its presence felt in at least one of the country's basic industries — homebuilding. They are getting married, creating new households, and seeking homes — new, old and rental jobs.

The extent of this new market for homes in the Detroit area may be found in the Census Bureau's most conservative projection which calls for a 10 per cent increase in the normal demand.
