The reporter says that after about three months of this he was broken lot the habit of calling information. He still doesn't even though he has long sinch mbwed out of the cub class. He doesn't even call information from home. Both the celtor and the phone company have a good point. It seems fantastic that three out of four calls to information ser for listed numbers, but we are not about to take on Michigan Bell.

Besides the plea about keeping down the costs so that the phone bill won't soar to new heights hit pretty close to home.

Thus this week's resolution is that the phone directory is coming out of its nice neat, but inconvenient niche to a more accessible but not so pretty spot.
