Now's Time to Foil Winter Cold, Snow

Preparation for winter to assure a weather-tight, comfortable home is a "must" for the economy-minded family. Snow control is important, too.

There's still time to insulate the roof and tighten the windows by adding storm sash. If your roof melts snow, this is an indication the attic needs insulation. Why try to heat the outdoors? An expensive and unnecessary caulk around windows and doors helps keep out winter gales. Weatherstripping is essential as heat-sealing cold climates. If you're in a location where snowdrifts close your driveway, why not put in a portable snow fence? Framed panels of Weatherall, an all-purpose hardboard siding, are recommended by Weatherall Corporation in sections eight feet long and four feet high.

Stake the panels into the ground before the first hard freeze by attaching them to the lower parts of steel fence posts. One post will serve two panels. Weatherall is factory primed. Add a coat of exterior oil-based paint. Store the fence, come Spring, or have it to give privacy to a patio area.

Compared to second-ranked Russia, production of electricity in the United States is about two and one-half times the Soviet total.

Donn Dates Is Named UNR Director

Donn Dates, broker and partner-owner of Dates and Morningstar Realty, Inc., Farmington, has been elected a director of the United North-western Realty Association—Western Wayne-Oakland County Board of Realtors.

Active in UNRA since 1954, Dates headed Redford Realty from 1946 to 1954. A Farmington resident for 13 years, he was recently reappointed to his fourth four-year term as a member of the Farmington Board of Zoning Appeals.

Elected a director along with Dates was Daniel R. Williamson, vice president of the Gordon Williamson Company, Detroit, Farmington, Dearborn, Birmingham and Livonia.

Re-elected directors were Marvin O. Moser, president of Mayfair Realty Company, Detroit; Edward J. Dub, manager of Matuzewski Realtors, Dearborn; and Charles W. Allen Jr., owner of Charles W. Allen Real Estate, Livonia. Moser is a past president of UNRA; Dub and Allen are respectively the association's secretary-elect and treasurer-elect for 1967.

All five directors will serve three-year terms.

Wood Gets Big Boost

Why do so many architect-designed homes feature wood paneled walls, wood decked ceilings and wood exterior siding?

One answer is found in a statement made by Paul Garduno, designer of the exciting "House/66".

Garduno, explaining his extensive use of western red cedar in "House/66" said: "I believe that no building material, regardless of cost, can provide so many advantages as does wood."

"It is readily and economically available in an infinite variety of patterns and textures. It is easily finished to any desired color tone."

"Wood provides a warmth and appearance which any nature can produce."

"And, in addition, it is structurally the easiest material with which to work."

"Every home, in my opinion, should make use of wood to some extent, on the walls, the ceilings and the floors."
