SUCCESS STORY: John Davis (left) of Plymouth shoots over upstretched arm of Walled Lake defender to score. The Rocks got off to a roaring start by beating their first two opponents.

Plymouth Cagers Roar—Capture First 2 Games

Strange as it may sound, Plymouth High, which has been anything but a powerhouse in basketball for the past several years, is off to its hottest start with two victories to show for the first two games.

Forced to play back to back home games against Walled Lake and Livonia Stevenson, because the latter school doesn't have its bleachers yet, the Rocks proceeded to maul the Lakers, 39-36, Friday in the home opener and then came back on Saturday to trample luckless Stevenson, 57-35.

Both coaches substituted freely in the final period with the result that the Lakers finally pulled up to 59-36 at the final whistle.

Observing SPORTS

Bouncing around from Detroit to Philadelphia to Detroit to Boston to Detroit to New York and back to Detroit—

So, it's little wonder daughter Julie asks: "Who's that guy who's visiting home tonight?"

But the travels produce some memorable moments—like Army-Navy night in Philadelphia.

Over more years than you care to remember, you've heard or watched the great service battle through the media of radio or television.

You've watched—thanks to TV—the parade of the cadets and the midshipmen. You've seen them pour off the field after a game and wondered what now for these men who'll lead our military forces in the years ahead.

So, here you are in the midst of thousands of cadets and midshipmen... and their girl friends.

When the game is over, the students revel in liberty until midnight! To do it up big in Philly. And, do it up... they do.

But, as you stand there and watch the cadets and midshipmen file past... or route to the busses and trains that'll take them back to West Point or Annapolis, you have to gain extra faith in our armed forces.
