Clothing Boom Is Foreseen

The late 1960's will likely see a boom in clothing sales. The teenage and college sets are scheduled to create a growing demand on the clothing market as we approach 1970, according to Bernetta Kahabka, clothing specialist with the Michigan State Co-operative Extension Service.

Clothing expenditures declined in relation to the total family income during the past few years. But a population shift may reverse this trend, says Miss Kahabka.

The boom in the clothing market will occur as the high proportion of pre-15 year olds moves into the young adult stage. This is a period of high clothing consumption.

Advertising and marketing will show a definite orientation toward young adults. It is the colleges and career-minded men and women who set the new trends and are most sensitive to style obsolescence.

The trend toward casual dress has also cut clothing expenses, adds Miss Kahabka. Generally speaking, casual clothes cost less than dressy ones. In addition, many fabrics have "long-life" characteristics which reduce frequent replacement.

This trend toward casual dress may be counteracted by special clothing for leisure and recreation.

For example, you will find special sportswear and lounging attire, says Miss Kahabka.

If you are a ski enthusiast, you will find a wide array of apparel just for you. Or as a football spectator, you may also find specially designed clothes.

An open house honoring their parents' 50th wedding anniversary was held recently for over 200 people, by the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Zivkovich, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Barber.

The Zivkoviches have three daughters, Mrs. James (Bessie) Barber, Redford Township; Mrs. Robert (Mildred) McConnell, Arcadia, California; Mrs. Charles (Ruby) Davis, Mio, and one son, George, Livonia; 11 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. They were married in Detroit and have lived in the Brightmoor area for 25 years.

Control Weight By These Tips

One can help control weight by controlling the amount of food one eats, says Mrs. June L. Sears, Extension Economist of Michigan State University. To lose weight, one must get fewer calories from food than the body uses; to gain weight, one must get more.

To maintain the same weight one must balance calories provided by food and those used by the body.

The following rules are a good guide to attain these:

1. Check with your doctor.
 2. Have a good sense of humor about it. This will help you and the people around you.
 3. Choose foods from the basic food chart.
 4. Follow a simple diet.
 5. Count calories.
 6. Weigh regularly.
 7. Stay as active as possible and adopt a new hobby of interest to take your mind off food.
 8. Take very mild exercise. Do not stimulate appetite by over-exercising. Exercise will help posture and appearance.
 9. Take a short rest. Any time when you think you feel tired and weak instead of eating take a glass of water and rest.
 10. Do not let worry and responsibilities stimulate appetite.
 11. Do not be a bore by talking about diet.
 12. Make your appearance as pleasing as possible to give you the lift you need by raising spirits as high as the sky.
 13. Follow these rules and stick to them. The compliments from family and friends will likely be your most cherished reward.
- Visualize yourself as you want to be and then work and eat with that goal in mind advises Mrs. Sears. You must have a good supply of (1) patience, (2) will power, and (3) determination.

Ford Wives Are Volunteers Assisting As Travelers Aides

A young man stood near the Traveler's Aid station at Metropolitan Airport.

He leaned casually on the counter as he scanned the concourse.

Behind the counter, Mrs. Van Salisbury and Mrs. John Trenasty went into a huddle and exchanged questions: "Did you see the bruises on his face?" "Yes, and did you see the awful cut under his eye?"

The young man overheard the comments and smiled. "Can you tell me how to get to The Olympia from here?" he asked.

"Certainly," Mrs. Trenasty stated. "Look at this map..."

About that time someone told her she was talking to Brian Watson, who makes a living playing hockey for the Detroit Red Wings.

"No wonder you're all cut and bruised," one of the ladies said. Then everybody laughed.

The ladies, who are members of the Ford Wives Club, are volunteer workers for Traveler's Aid. The club is composed of Ford Motor Company employees.

Besides Mrs. Salisbury and Mrs. Trenasty, some 25 members of the club have been trained for the airport, counter work. About 30 members of Ford Motor Girls Club's Central Chapter are being trained for similar volunteer work.

In 1965 more than 65,000 travelers were assisted at the Metropolitan Airport counter work four-hour shifts. The station is open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and just about every situation—from finding lost children to deciphering airline schedules—is handled at the counter.

Members of the Ford Girls Club are expected to complete training soon and will work their shifts after putting in eight-hour days at Ford Motor Company.

Toast-Man Tops Bowl of Soup

Tailored to a child's fancy are whimsical, tasty cut-ups atop a bowl of soup: Heat one can (16 1/2 ounces) condensed noodles and ground beef soup according to label directions. Meantime, make a toast-man by cutting a slice of loaf into 4 strips, 1 1/2 inches long, for legs and arms and into 1 large and 1 small square for body and head. Pour soup into bowls and arrange toast pieces on top. Makes 2 to 3 servings.
