"Big Sister" Program Enriches Life for Madonna Students

There's a special glow to the holiday season for 13 girls at Madonna College participating in a "Big Sister" program.

And it's a glow that can last all year. For these students aim to bring out the special companionship of a big sister to some of the 120 mentally retarded girls at Our Lady of Providence school in Northville.

The girls started in September to pay monthly visits to the school. Students from several high schools in the area joined them. Each of the older girls has her special "little sister" at the home, and together they learn square dancing, group games and bingo.

Or sometimes they just sit and chat.

The program is in the charge of Sister Mary Louise, D.S.M.P. of the same.

"The initial purpose of the program," she explained, "is to provide our girls with different opportunities to widen and enrich their social experience."

But there is a second purpose, she added. It is "to provide the opportunity for young women to acquaint themselves with needy children with the hope that some may choose special education as their field."

The older girls have been touched by the enthusiastic reception they receive at the home.

"When you leave," said freshman Maureen Gallagher, "you have mixed emotions. We do all we can and try to write to our little sisters at least once a week."

Added junior Susan Szerba: "I was happy to see the many facilities and opportunities afforded these youngsters, and excited to offer my little sister more companionship."

"I know," commented freshman Joan Francoline, who previously had offered her services to the American Academy for the Deaf and Blind in Connecticut, "what if I had a sister in a like situation I'd want the same for her."

Other Madonna girls participating in the project include Mary Munsell, Ginger Grace, Ginger Vialand, Marilyn Rushin, Junior Janet Libarda and Charlotte Jendza, sophomores, and Sharon Callahan, Barbara Jepson, Paullette Serafini, Kathleen Gredt, Jean Hill, Elizabeth Maxwell and Antoinette Sosnowski, freshmen.

Ginger Grace summed it up for all the volunteer big sisters.

"I never met such happy innocents with the greatest of motives—love of God."

Farmington Garden Club To Hold Annual Meeting

The Farmington Garden Club held its annual Meeting and reception for the past-presidents at the Livonia Knights Inn, Monday, Dec. 5, 29703 Seven Mile Rd., Livonia.

The theme for the afternoon was: "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

The reception was held at 12:30 and the luncheon followed at 1:00 p.m. Mrs. Glenn Leland was in charge of the floral arrangements and Mrs. H. F. Brown entertained the members and guests with slides of "Year in Review."

Election of officers for 1967 and the installation of the new officers preceded the program and the singing of carols was the finale for the afternoon.

WSU Women Hold Alpha Xi Delta Christmas Auction

Members of the Farmington-Livonia Women of Wayne Alumnae will make holiday centerpieces at their "Christmas Playshop" meeting at 8 p.m. tonight, Dec. 7.

The meeting will be held at the home of vice-president Gloria Heino, 16903 Surrey Drive, Livonia.

Also planned for the meeting is a cookie exchange and the club's annual trimming of a Mitten Tree. The mittens — or socks or other small items of children's clothing — will be used in the club's service project of aiding the needy school children.

All women who are graduates of Wayne State University or have taken classes there are invited to attend, bringing along two dozen cookies, a cover-up apron and a contribution of socks or mittens.

For more information, members and prospective members may call Mrs. Heino at GA 7-0269.

The chapter opened its holiday season with a couples' open house at the Farmington home of Mr. and Mrs. Kennard Cummings, Sunday, Dec. 4.

Proceeds from the bidding will be used for the sorority's two philanthropies, the Howell Settlement House, on a national level, and the Plymouth State Home and Training School.

All alumnae living in the area are invited to attend and bring guests. For reservations, members may call Mrs. Owen Newell, 423-3105, who is serving as co-hostess with Mrs. Richard Mozler.
