

Conroy's Corners

Mr. and Mrs. August Layaz entertained a party of about 25 at dinner Sunday, guests being present from Farmington, Clarenceville, Detroit and Pontiac.

Mrs. Omer Conroy entertained her niece, Miss Evelyn, on Sunday. Tom Densmore, was in Detroit visitor Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Conroy and two children of River Rouge spent from Thursday until Saturday at Maple Ridge farm, and were accompanied home by the former's mother, who remained until Monday.

Mesdames Spranger and Courty were Detroit shoppers Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wick of Powers Station spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Spranger.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bartlett and son, Floyd, were Sunday visitors in Farmington.

Mrs. Eva Harrison of Wayne tha Schroeder of Farmington were Monday visitors at Chris Spaller's.

Harry Reynolds was a Pontiac caller Tuesday.

The miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Omer Conroy in honor of her niece, Mrs. Lorraine Conroy Ganoog was largely attended, although the weather was not what they desired. Guests were present from Wayne, Detroit, Farmington, Birmingham, River Rouge and Southfield. The dining room was prettily decorated in pink and white, while over the table a large white bell was suspended with alternate colors of pink and white streamers extending to the table and fastened with asterisks in the foregoing colors. Music was the feature of the afternoon. At five o'clock the guests, numbering 35, were invited to the dining room where a bountiful supper was served. The bride was the recipient of many useful presents. Mrs. Conroy responded to a toast which was composed by one of our readers, the copy of which arrives at this office too late for publication.

Redford

The Branch of the VFW held a meeting in the Presbytery on Monday night, Oct. 31. Remember the date.

Mrs. F. L. DeNio and Mrs. G. Lockerman tendered a birthday to their mother, Mrs. Charles Maher, Sr., at the home of the former last Friday. A number of intimate friends of the lady were present and an enjoyable afternoon was passed.

Mr. Hemingford, manager of the Detroit News company, who purchased a Grand River lot in Redford last spring, is contemplating moving to the village, but is anxious to secure a piece of acreage or a small farm near and has commissioned Mr. Ramsey to find him a place.

Kind that Redford needs and can use to advantage. He drives a fine turnout, as he is fond of horses, and also rides a Kentucky thoroughbred, taking daily rides.

Anyone with a small farm for sale might find a buyer in this man by applying to C. E. Ramsey.

The school house committee took a long automobile trip on Tuesday for the purpose of inspection of some of the newer and more cool buildings of the c They visited Sibley, Trenton and Grosse Isle, crossing over to the Island on a ferry.

Many ideas were gathered, and points observed that will be an aid in the deterioration of the kind of building needed for Redford.

Superintendent L. L. Wright of the state department of public instruction has promised to meet with the committee in a short time for information and advice be can that will be of assistance.

MULES PINE FOR OLD HOME

Missouri's Prize Products, Transported to Minnesota, Fed Pungent Food, Laid and Refuse to Eat.

Homestead for the corner with the open floor and the old barn that cracked when the wind blew, lonesome for their lost master, two big Missouri mules have been raising pandemonium in Hans Jensen's stable, while the police are looking for "Thomas" Erickson, owner of the mules, says a Minneapolis (Minn.) Dispatch to the New York Sun.

Minnesota clover, hay, corn, oats, feedstuffs, new beet tops, onions and mint juleps have failed to appease the hunger of the homestead mules. Peter Jensen, Hans' son, burst into police headquarters at the court house and told the story. "I fed those mules everything that grows in Minnesota, and tried to make them drink a pail of mint juleps," said Peter, "but they won't touch it. They're so lonesome they won't unless the neighbors, who have not been asleep since they arrived, take matters into their own hands."

GIRLS HAVE

Of Course She Wasn't Going to Marry "Him" but There Was Another Chapter to Story.

Once upon a time there was a fellow and a girl. The fellow came calling. He meant business. After a while the friends of the girl began to twist her about him, asking her when it was going to be and all that. She replied. Among other things she said: "Marry that pill? I guess not." "That snippy little thing? Not for mine." "I wouldn't marry him if he was the last man on earth." "Oh, he's well enough in his way, but he's not 'my' notion of a husband."

"I wish you people would stop your nonsense. He's absolutely nothing to me." "I guess you think I must be pretty hard up to want to marry that."

Sequel: And did she subsequently marry a prince? Not exactly. She married "that." They all do.

THINKING IS A LOST ART.

A little hard thinking will supply the place of a great deal of reading; and an hour or two spent in this manner sometimes lead you to conclusions which it would require a volume to establish. The mind advances in its train of thought, as a restful bolt proceeds on the road in which you wish to guide him. He is always running to one side or the other, and deviating from the proper path, to which it is your affair to bring him back. I have asked several men what passes in their minds when they are thinking; and I never could find any man who could think for two minutes together. Everybody has seemed to admit it was a perpetual deviation from a particular path, and a perpetual return to it; which, imperfect as the operation is, is the only method in which we can operate with our minds to carry on any process of thought.—Sydney Smith.

WILLIE WANTED TO KNOW.

"Pa," said little Willie, "what does askew mean?" "Askew?" repeated the old gentleman. "Why askew means gone wrong, crooked. Why do you ask?" "Why, I notice that after you put name on all your letters they pull E—S—Q, but I didn't know you'd ever gone wrong or was crooked, pa. What did you do?" asked little Willie. —Harper's Weekly.

AGITATING AN OLD PRODUCT.

"Yep," said the Chautauqua man who had struck the right side of the all boom, "I'm going to send my daughter to Boston to learn culture and refinement." "And how about your son?" asked the visitor. "Him? Oh, I'll send him to Cleveland to learn his refinement."
