

Separate Charges Sought In Court

A motion to force separate criminal charges against the top two officers in the Wayne County Sheriff's Department will be decided by Circuit Judge Carl M. Weidenman tomorrow, Thursday.

Joseph Louisell, defense attorney for Sheriff Peter L. Buback, Raymond J. Deryck, counsel for James Bomarito, filed a motion Friday to force the state attorney general's office to file separate charges or have the case dismissed.

The two defendants are charged with four counts of willful neglect of duty in the aftermath of the 1965 traffic ticket fixing scandal in Westland which eventually resulted in the creation of a one-man grand jury.

The two attorneys claim in their motion that the information filed by the state Dec. 16 in specifying the charges is really a "hodgepodge of allegations" and that there is no effort being made to separate Buback and Bomarito and contains charges unrelated to the charges in the warrant. Buback's attorney claims that the information "is so confused and confusing as to render it impossible for either defendant to intelligently prepare a separate motion to dismiss the charges."

Judge Weidenman will also decide Thursday whether he will grant or deny the attorney general's office request to move the trial outside of Wayne County.

The state made the request on the ground that the jurors hearing the case would be physically guarded by deputies serving under Buback.

No Delay Seen in Grand Jury Exam

Despite a delay in the delivery of the formal transcript, there will be no delay in the winding up of the preliminary examination of three former Garden City officials charged with misuse of public funds.

Wayne Municipal Judge John Sciler told The Observer Monday that although the transcript hasn't been delivered (as of the promised date of last Thursday), the conclusion of the examination will start at 10 a.m. Monday, Jan. 23, as scheduled.

Sciler also said he received a letter Thursday from Assistant State Attorney Robert Gossy, who is handling the prosecution, which said that the transcript is being sent to the Attorney General's office in Lansing before being forwarded to the Wayne court. The three defendants, who have maintained their innocence in the case, followed formal charges filed by Judge man grand juror George J. Bowles, are Edwin J. Freese, former mayor and then city clerk-treasurer; Eugene Salvatore, former city councilman; and Evan Callanan, former city attorney.

They are charged in a series of multi-counts that they conspired to illegally obtain $12,000 in the purchase of three parcels where the City Hall now stands.

Key witnesses in the three preliminary exams held last month was realtor William New, now retired. He testified that he received a $80, 160 check from the city with $12,000 of that figure taken by Salvatore.

Also during the hearing, former councilman Max Brown testified that Charles E. Lowe, who was mayor at the time of the land purchase, was not told or informed of the property deal.

Lowe said that he didn't find out about the purchase until July 10 when he returned from Army reserve training.
