Wayne State University Offers Special Training

A number of non-credit courses, designed for persons in management, supervisory, scientific and technical work, will be offered in this area, starting the week of February 6.

They will meet at Franklin High School in Livonia and Lee Thurston High School in South Redford Township.

Officials of the Applied Management and Technology Center, Division of Urban Extension, Wayne State University, announced classes will meet in the late afternoon, evenings and on Saturday mornings.

The courses, taught by specialists from business, industry and education, cover such subjects as: computer programming, more rapid reading, practical plastics technology, and blueprint reading and sketching.

Complete course information and registration forms may be obtained from the Center, 640 Temple, Detroit.

BEING CONGRATULATED after their formal installation into office were State Senators Lorraine Beebe, whose district includes Redford Township, and George W. Kuhn, who represents Livonia, Plymouth and Farmington. The two freshmen legislators took their oaths of office in ceremonies held Wednesday morning in the Senate Chamber in the State Capitol. Administering the oaths of office were Judge T. John Lesinski, Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, and Judge John Fitzgerald, Chief Judge Protem of that court.

The schedule for classes in this area is as follows:

- Franklin High School
- Monday: Training for Middle Management.
- Tuesday: Computer Programming — Introduction, Semiconductor Circuits Laboratory, Communication for Foremen and Supervisors, Motion and Time Study Fundamentals, and Computer Languages—FOR TRAN.
- Wednesday: Network Planning (CPM—PERT) (10 sessions), Preparation for Foremanship and Supervision, Lithographic Costs and Estimating, and Efficient, More Rapid Reading (10 sessions).
- Thursday: Supervision and Development of Personnel, Introduction to Computers and EDP, Blueprint Reading and Sketching (Product—Mechanical), and Business English, Basis of Sound Communication.
- Thurston High School
- Monday: Sales Management — Industrial, and Introduction to Computers and EDP.
- Tuesday: Quality Control: Operational Applications.
- Wednesday: Computer Language: COBOL, and Welding Metallurgy.
- Thursday: Practical Planning Technology, and Operations and Programming Fundamentals Planning: Linear Analysis and Mentals.
