

Moderates in Control of State GOP

by Tim Richard and Mrs. Chandler
A moderate Republican slate led by John F. Cartwright will run party affairs in the 19th Congressional District for the next two years.

PARTY BOSSES from the Republican Wayne 19th confer just before the other half of their district (the Oakland 19th) were seated. At this point they were not sure which group would be joining them—the Cartwright-moderates or the Powell-conservatives. (l-r) Wayne 19th Operating Chairman, Delores Korey; Eldon Funk, and unsuccessful congressional primary candidate Richard Kuhn at the Republican State Convention last weekend.

Livonia Republican League Chairman Ben Thomas, Redford Township Republican League Chairman. The Wayne 19th cheered the Cartwright group from Oakland to their seats after the vote and the decision was announced from the floor of the convention.

the 12th and the 14th Districts under the leadership of Richard Durant, attempted to put through a state-wide referendum on the Governor's fiscal reform package.

The 19th District moderates assisted in voting down the 12th and 14th Districts. Had the conservative Powell group been seated the Oakland 19th would have voted with them.

To be seated at the convention in Detroit's Cobo Hall, the moderates group had to survive two tests of political strength—in the credentials committee and the convention floor.

The battle actually began at the 19th District-Oakland convention Jan. 31, when delegates were to be elected to the state convention.

•Powell in a hallway interview said he preferred Romney over either California Gov. Ronald Reagan or Barry Goldwater as a presidential candidate—but accused the vigorous Romneyites of trying to "exclude dependent thought" through ideological conformity.

RON LINTON

VERNON GOELZER

arguments and dozens of quotations from Roberts' Rules of Order, still voted along ideological lines.

RON LINTON

Upon of Berrien County and attorney James Schenck, a former Young Republican State Chairman, doing most of the arguing in favor of the conservative Powell-Kuhn group was Durant, also a member of the credentials committee.

RON LINTON

Experts to Air Pollution Woes In Area Seminar

Interested in the problems of air, water and solid waste pollution? Then there isn't any better time than Saturday at Livonia Stevenson High School, 33500 Six Mile Road, to get some valuable information.

The Observer Newspaper Group, in cooperation with officials from the City of Livonia, will hold a Seminar Saturday with outstanding national, state and local experts slated to head the morning and afternoon programs.

The registration fee of $3.50 includes a coffee break in the morning, luncheon in the school cafeteria and attendance at the two sessions.

Ron Linton, chairman Task Force on Environmental Health and Related Problems, is coming in from Washington, D.C. to discuss all phases of the problems during the noon luncheon. He also will be available for the discussion groups in the morning and afternoon.

Linton, a native of Detroit, has been involved in the Washington scene for years, serving as a member of the personal campaign staff of then Senator John F. Kennedy and also on the staff of the late Senator Patrick McNamara.

As Chairman of Secretary Gardner's Task Force on Environmental Health and Related Problems, Linton heads a six-member group of persons from outside the Federal Government whom the Secretary asked to recommend Departmental goals in the area of environmental and health protection.

health protection, priorities for the achievement of goals, a Departmental strategy for attaining recommended goals and a means of creating increased national awareness of the need to solve environmental health problems.

Vernon Goelzer, chief of the Engineering Division of the Detroit District Office of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, also is slated for appearances at both programs.

The Seminar activities will open at 8:30 a.m. with a display of exhibits in the cafeteria including a demonstration by Centri-Spray of Livonia of their new equipment for fighting pollution.

The program will start at 8:30 a.m. with Livonia DPW Chief David Jones discussing "Solid waste in the '60s." Morton Sterling, of Detroit, will tell of "Air Pollution in the Jet Age" and John Stock will talk on "Better Environmental Health and Clean Water."

Following the luncheon from noon to 1:30 p.m. at which Linton will be the principal speaker, the afternoon program will start at 1:45 and continue to 4 p.m.

Speakers will include: Robert Bird, of Centri-Spray on "Industrial Science and Air and Water Pollution," Robert Stollwagen on "Role of the Air Scrubber and Incineration," and Fred Kellow on "Progress in State Programs for Solid Waste Disposal."

Reservations will be accepted Saturday morning prior to the start of the program.

Deficit spending is still a strong party plank.

Schoolcraft to Dedicate Waterman Campus Center

A formal procession of Schoolcraft College administrators and faculty in full academic regalia will open dedicatory ceremonies for the Lois L. Waterman Campus Center at 3 p.m. on Sunday, March 12.

Dr. Ralph Banfield, Ann Arbor, executive secretary of the Mid-West Community College Leadership Program, will deliver the dedicatory address at the ceremony, to which the public is invited.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

The ceremony, in the upper level of the Center, will begin with the formal procession. John H. Brinn, vice-president for instruction, will deliver the invocation, and Dr. Eric J. Bradner, college president, will introduce guests.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

The ceremony, in the upper level of the Center, will begin with the formal procession. John H. Brinn, vice-president for instruction, will deliver the invocation, and Dr. Eric J. Bradner, college president, will introduce guests.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

The ceremony, in the upper level of the Center, will begin with the formal procession. John H. Brinn, vice-president for instruction, will deliver the invocation, and Dr. Eric J. Bradner, college president, will introduce guests.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

The ceremony, in the upper level of the Center, will begin with the formal procession. John H. Brinn, vice-president for instruction, will deliver the invocation, and Dr. Eric J. Bradner, college president, will introduce guests.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

The ceremony, in the upper level of the Center, will begin with the formal procession. John H. Brinn, vice-president for instruction, will deliver the invocation, and Dr. Eric J. Bradner, college president, will introduce guests.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

The ceremony, in the upper level of the Center, will begin with the formal procession. John H. Brinn, vice-president for instruction, will deliver the invocation, and Dr. Eric J. Bradner, college president, will introduce guests.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

The ceremony, in the upper level of the Center, will begin with the formal procession. John H. Brinn, vice-president for instruction, will deliver the invocation, and Dr. Eric J. Bradner, college president, will introduce guests.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

The ceremony, in the upper level of the Center, will begin with the formal procession. John H. Brinn, vice-president for instruction, will deliver the invocation, and Dr. Eric J. Bradner, college president, will introduce guests.

Dr. Banfield is also professor of education at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

The program will include the unveiling of an oil portrait of Miss Waterman who served as the first Dean of Student Affairs. She has remained active on campus as a special consultant in the college's self-study toward accreditation by the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Miss Waterman is now Dean Emerita of the college.

Invited guests include presidents of community colleges, state officials, legislators, members of Boards of Education, superintendents and high school principals within the college district, mayors and township supervisors, and trustees of the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

A reception honoring Dean Waterman will follow the ceremony in the lower level of the Center. The public is invited to the reception.

Observer Newspaper Group
Michigan's Largest Community Newspaper Group... Serving 132 square miles of Northwest Wayne County and parts of Southern Oakland County.
Published every Wednesday
Philip H. Power, Publisher
32425 Grand River Avenue
Farmington, Mich. 48024
Small Subscription Rate (anywhere in the U.S. and to subscribers with foreign mail orders): $10 per year. Controlled circulation postage paid at Farmington, Michigan.
MEMBER MICHIGAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

WONDERLAND STORE ONLY
PLYMOUTH at MIDDLEBELT

NAVY

...sharpest new recruits for the Easter-dress parade

Attention! That's the order of the day for navy's top-brass fashions. Here, just two of Ward's exciting collection in luxurious double knit acetates featuring Spring's verry young-looking in navy.

Interesting seam, braided button and white insert on this skimmer style. 12-20....14.99

NO MONEY DOWN - JUST SAY "CHARGE IT!"