

Cultural Leadership Schoolcraft Offering July 'Summer Court' Concerts

Schoolcraft College is bidding for a position of suburban cultural leadership with a series of "Summer Court Concerts" on the campus at 18000 Hagerly, Livonia.

Most music festivals are heterogeneous in nature—offering music by a variety of composers and periods—but the Schoolcraft festival will have a single theme.

IT WILL CONCENTRATE on the music of Joseph Haydn (1732-1809) and the contemporary neo-classicist Paul Hindemith.

Haydn is the father of the classical symphony and the string quartet, which he laced with sparkling melodies and rich instrumental coloring; his music is currently enjoying a revival.

Hindemith, who was born in Germany in 1895 and later settled in the U.S., was a string quartet musician-turned-composer. He used many techniques of the 1700's in writing operas, symphonies, ballets, sonatas and chamber music.

THE CONCERTS are scheduled for four Wednesdays in July—the 5th, 12th, 19th and 26th. All will begin at 8:30 p.m. Tickets at $1.50 for adults and $1 for children will be available at the door. There will be no advance sales.

Outdoor setting for the concerts will be in a natural amphitheater between two wings of the Forum building. Lawn chairs will seat 600 persons. (In the event of rain, the concerts will move indoors to the Lois L. Waterman Campus Center.)

The Court Concert orchestra will be composed of members of the summer music school faculty. All are or have been performing members of the Detroit Symphony, augmented by members of the Plymouth Symphony.

SOLOIST July 5 will be William Dopman, 33, University of Michigan-educated concert artist and professor of music at the University of Iowa.

Other soloists will be mezzosoprano Leslie Elton on July 12, and Kenneth Jewel Chorale on July 19, and violist Paul Doktor on July 26.

In conjunction with the public concerts Schoolcraft College is offering a summer educational program which will be taught by a number of prominent musicians.
