Not Many Flags Flew

It's sad but true—many people wondered what all the flags were doing around town last Wednesday.

The 14th of June was Flag Day.

It has been since New York state first celebrated it in 1897. Flag Day is officially designated as June 14, 1777.

A survey around town Wednesday revealed that not many people own flags. Or at least they had not put them out.

The fact that downtown had a rousing array of flags is due to the Farmington Jaycees. They have been ringing the streets with flags for five years. They have placed approximately 100 of them.

FEA Installs New Officers

New officers of the Farmington Education Association were installed June 6 at the Retirement and Installation Dinner co-sponsored by the FEA and the Farmington Board of Education.

Members of the FEA executive committee for the coming year are: Sharon Maher, president; Gene Syverson, past president; Robert Neuhauser, vice president; Kay Youngblood, secretary; and Inez Winslow, treasurer.

Under the group's auspices, Farmington displays flags 12 times a year.

The Jaycees even installed the cups that hold the flags. Their purpose, they say, is to insure that flags are displayed on proper days and to provide uniformity in the city's displays.

Five or six Jaycees put them out at 7 a.m. on appropriate days and take them down at 7 p.m.

FHS Group Attends Tournament

A group of debaters, singers and musicians from Farmington High School are on Mackinac Island this weekend attending the Mackinac Island Lilac Festival Debate tournament. The convention, an annual affair, was organized by Lloyd Smith, debate coach at the school.

This evening, the singers are performing in the lobby of Grand Hotel and Sunday will join a parade to the island's central park.

Feucht will conduct the musicians, but accompaniment will be under the direction and arrangement of Weidon. He has arranged parts for the first violin, saxophone, clarinet, string bass, flute and viola.

OLD GLORY whips in the breeze. This flag, in front of Township Hall, is flown every day as is the case with most public buildings.

Clair and Theresa McKay drove to Canada last month to take in Expo 67. They were gone five days including driving time, spent 18 hours at the fair and saw 18 exhibits. They considered it very worthwhile.

Cartor Dillu graduated from the Detroit Institute of Technology June 5. He is now a full time employee of Ryerson Steel for whom he has been working part time for the past 2 1/2 years. He is now taking the sales training course.

There were 17 present at the Women's Association meeting June 6 held at Mary Kay Agnello's. Dorothy Wheeler and Grace Taylor provided the delicious dessert. Marian Lam had a gift for our out-going president, Ginny Albertsen. She let us see the very lovely silver candle snuffer which she took to Ginny after the meeting as she had been unable to attend.

It was announced that there will be no July meeting of the Women's Association as the first Tuesday is the 4th. The following Tuesday, July 11, comes too close to our summer picnic which will be on Saturday, July 15, at the Martins', 28270 Wellington. There probably will be no summer picnic for the Women's Association this year.

Paul and I flew east June 1 to attend his interim reunion at Amherst College. We spent the night of June 1 with his sister in Northampton, driving over to Amherst the following day.

Sunday afternoon we drove to my daughter's in Sterling, Mass., which we made our headquarters until time to fly home the morning of June 7, making side trips to see other relatives and friends.
