

Futurmill-UAW Sign Apprentice Agreement

An apprentice agreement for the training of workers in two of the skilled trades has been signed by Farmington Township's Futurmill plant and Local 540 of the United Auto Workers, AFL-CIO.

In the history of the local, which covers 28 separate plants, and is believed to be the first of its kind in the Farmington area.

1-96 freeway, it will be implemented as soon as approval of the agreement is received from the U.S. Bureau of Apprenticeship Training in Washington.

Bill Ward, spokesman for the UAW local, termed the agreement "a vehicle used to train young people in the skilled trades."

Completion of the four year program will lead to a journeyman's card in the trade, FUTURMILL'S PERSONNEL.

theory. The apprentices will take at least 12 courses during the program.

In order to qualify, one must be a high school graduate. Tipping said that Futurmill's present employees would receive preference when applying for the program. Futurmill currently employs about 120 persons on an hourly rate and 65 salaried personnel.

REPRESENTATIVES of the Futurmill plant and the United Auto Workers Local 540 sign an agreement establishing an apprentice training program at the Farmington Township plant. This is the first such agreement in the Farmington area.
