Introduces New Type Cork Panel

Someone has finally come up with something really new and different in wall paneling.

The Armstrong product is deeply embossed to provide a rugged, textured, three-dimensional surface. The effect suggests planks of real wormy chestnut that have been gently weathered and delicately aged since colonial days to an elegant, antique-like finish.

This unique, antiqued reproduction of wormy chestnut is available in 4'x8' panels. In order to provide for the deep-texture embossing, the panels are 5/16" in thickness, in contrast to the 1/4" thickness of most standard paneling products. Each panel is random-grooved vertically and, when installed, provides the appearance of individual, random-width planks.

The new wormy chestnut panels are easy to install; they may be applied directly to studs, furring strips, plaster or wallboard with nails or adhesive.

Area Realtors To Hear Talk On Pollution

"Pollution and the Corporate 'Full Gush'" will be the topic of a talk by T. A. (Dave) Davenport before members of the United Northwestern Realty Association — Western Wayne-Oakland County Board of Realtors in a noon luncheon meeting on Thursday, Sept. 28.

A consultant to industry, Davenport contends that much misinformation is reaching the public regarding air and water pollution, in many instances unduly blaming industry.

Davenport has been working with Detroit, Wayne County and the State of Michigan in their attempts at pollution control.

Davenport serves as chairman of the Natural Resources Committee of the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce. He was associated for many years with the Budd Company as its plant engineer in the Detroit area.
