

New Teachers Signed For Westland Schools

The Livonia school system, which includes part of the eastern Westland area, has contracted for 400 new teachers and specialists to take care of the exploding classroom needs in these rapidly growing suburban communities.

Not all of the incoming teachers will be assigned to new positions. Some will replace colleagues who are on various types of leave or who for educational or personal reasons have taken positions elsewhere in the United States or at overseas dependent school posts.

At a time when many systems in Michigan are facing the prospect of opening school with less than a complete roster of teachers, Livonia has signed up all teachers needed for the 1967-68 school year with the exception of a few industrial arts and specialist positions.

According to Dr. Norman L. Whisler, director of personnel, the new year begins with many teachers reassigned to new schools. This is necessary to balance young, recently graduated neophytes with more experienced teachers.

IN SOME CASES, teachers who have returned from educational or maternity leaves are assigned to new schools. In others, in a sort of "musical chairs" routine, the promotion of educators to principalships or specialist positions, results in vacancies which are often filled by transfer from other schools.

Teachers serving in the Livonia system for the first time are shown with the letter (N) after their names.

Careless Smoker Public Enemy

The Westland Fire Dept. this week opened a campaign against the careless smoker, termed "Public Enemy Number One." "Match heads and cigarettes have no brains and the same can be said for the type of smoker who persists in starting fires in homes and forests," the department said.

"Each year, thoughtless smokers are responsible for more than 200,000 fires and about 1,200 people die in these fires, according to the National Fire Protection estimates."

Renewal Group Reformed

Garden City's urban renewal committee will be reformed. The previous 12-member group which hasn't met within the past six months, will get underway soon in a smaller format.

The City Council named five persons to the group: Tom Polard and Eugene Recca, who will be the new committee members. Mayor Timothy Murphy said that the new committee should study three areas of federal funds for local improvements as soon as it is organized.

These studies would include relocation for elderly citizens and those replaced by the Garden City urban renewal project at Cherry Hill and Middle Belt Roads; a federal grant for a land development study to look into the opening of presently dead-end streets; and a neighborhood renewal plan, under which substandard homes are removed for new development on a "spot" basis without taxing the entire area.

Art Show To Open On Oct. 1

The Bloomfield Art Association opens its season Sunday, Oct. 1, with an exhibition of work signed to appeal to the area's many young art collectors.

Graphics International, selected by painter-printmaker Aris Koutroulis from Detroit and Ann Arbor galleries, will include 53 works by such well-known painters as Robert Motherwell, Robert Rauschenberg, Larry Rivers and Marsiolo.

Koutroulis, who studied printmaking at Tamarind in Los Angeles, has also included prints by such noteworthy local artists as Robert Broner and Laurence Barker and examples of work from England, France, Spain, Italy, Mexico and Brazil.

The resurgence of printmaking among outstanding painters and sculptors in America has removed the once wide-spread concept of graphics as "art for the masses" and enabled them to recover their dignity as a medium of original expression.

In presenting Graphics International, the Bloomfield Art Association seeks to show examples which demonstrate that this art form has regained the status it held in the nineteenth century.

The Detroit galleries of Gertrude Kaale, Lawrence Stevens, Franklin Siden, and London Arts as well as the Forsythe and Lantern galleries of Ann Arbor have loaned works for this exhibition. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nagle, of Southfield,--both commercial artists--are handling the installation.

Aris Koutroulis, who is responsible for the content of the exhibition, is Assistant Professor of Graphics at Wayne State University and a member of the Bloomfield Art Association faculty.

Graphics International will be open from 2 to 5 p.m. daily except Monday. The Gallery is located at 1516 South Canby, Birmingham.
