

FARMS AND VILLAGE PROPERTY

THE GRAND RIVER SECTION

My time is devoted to farms in the vicinity of Redford and Farmington and to village property in these two growing towns.

I have large and small farms of varying prices and have a large number of houses in town for sale. Am also local agent for vacant lots in the leading subdivisions of the two villages.

I need more farms and houses to meet the demand. See me if you want to sell.

EASY WAY TO MAKE $25,000

Prove This Simple Little Mathematical Proposition and the Neat Fortune Is Yours.

Readers who are especially gifted in mathematics will be interested, if allured, by the apparently simple way to make a fortune that the London Sphere points out.

Twenty-five thousand dollars waits the student who will prove a proposition of the French mathematician, Fermat, who lived about 300 years ago. The prize will remain open to all comers for a century.

Prof. G. A. Miller, who told of it in a recent address on modern mathematical research, not unreasonably says that such a large inducement may set all sorts of mediocre mathematicians to wasting their time on the problem.

The proposition to be proved is that the sum of no two powers except squares is itself a power of the same degree. Sums of squares are often squares. For instance, the square of three is nine, and that of four is sixteen. Add sixteen and nine and you have twenty-five, which is the square of five. But this has never been found to be true for cubes or fourth powers, or any powers above squares, and Fermat asserted that no such cases would or could be found.

He proved it, too—at least he said he had done so—but his proof is lost, and no one has ever recovered it or discovered another, although proofs have been found for definite powers. Some of the world's greatest mathematicians have worked on the problem.

WAS JAPANESE FOR MANDOLIN

Onoko Watanna's Blonde Typist so Constructed "Maudlin" in the Story Writer's Copy.

Onoko Watanna, who writes Japanese stories, employs a typist, a gum-chewing, be-puffed and hobbled blonde. A day or two ago this capable young person came to the word "maudlin" in a page of copy which she was transcribing. On the typewritten sheet this word appeared as "mandolin."

"Did I write that word?" the author asked the typist. "No, you didn't," said the other, with evident pride in having caught no detected an error. "You wrote 'ma-a-d-i-l-i-n,' but I see it and changed it."

"Yes, but that is the way I want it written, 'maudlin' and not 'mandolin,'" insisted the author.

"Oh, I understand now," was the answer. "I play the mandolin myself, and I see now the other's the Japanese word for it."

FAVORITE FICTION.

FOR EXAMPLE.

"Professor, how do you define 'Attitude'?"
"Oh, it's a refined sort of—but let me give you an illustration. Suppose you wished to convey the idea that a certain office holder is the ultimate, the me plus ultra, the limit, if it were, in superlativeness and general ineptitude; you would say, 'He isn't worth his chloride of sodium.'"

PUT UP OLD ONES FOR SALE.

On the train out of Medford way Subbubs got into conversation with a stranger who remarked: "I see you are putting up a good many new buildings."

"Yes," answered Subbubs, "new buildings are the only kind we put up."—Boston Evening Transcript.

A QUICK CURE.

"Why has Gayboy quit all his clubs?"
"He heard that his wife posed as an interesting widow at several recent social affairs."

CANNISAL'S DISH.

"My dear, listen to this, and tell me what you make of it!" exclaimed the elderly English lady to her husband, on her first visit to the states. She held the hotel menu almost at arm's length, and spoke in a tone of horror.
"Baked Indian pudding!" Can it be possible in a civilized country?"

LOST ACCOMPLISHMENT.

"I presume you sometimes look back on your youth with a sigh of regret."
"Yes. It seems a long, long time since I could spell 'Ponocatepetl.'"
