

JAZZY REVUE -- Kay Rubin's final day as a substitute teacher at Kenbrook School came to a gala conclusion with her sixth grade students putting on a "Roaring Twenties Revue." A few of the cast are shown with Miss Rubin during a pause for breath at one of the three performances.

substitute sixth graue teacher at Kenthrook School was more than memorable. It was marked by two farewell parties shee by facilities and three separate performance of a "roaring twenties" vaudewille show, which Miss Robin put together with a musical assist from Mrs. Amy Adelman and Robert Weinberg. Two performances of the show, complete with flapper-ar costumes, were given for the student body during class hours and another in the evening for parents.

Last spring, just a short time after she took over the class, Miss Rubin helped her students put on a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, so by the "Iventies" show they were old hands with grease paint. When Lyn Nutall accepted a temporary teaching assignment for Oakland County, Miss Rubin was called in to take the class last April while still a student at Wayne State University.
