Hillside Inn Continues Expansion, Adds 2 Rooms

It all started back in 1934 when Jacob Stremich started the Hillside Inn during the height of the great depression even though his best friends advised him that he couldn't make it go.

The Inn had a capacity of around 50 at the time but that was increased to 100 within a short time as business picked-up despite the financial condition of the United States.

The past 34 years have brought tremendous changes in the Inn, changes that have boosted the dining capacity to more than 500 with the addition of one dining area after another.

Jacob Stremich died some years ago and his widow, Mrs. Margaret Stremich joined with her nephew, Robert, in the operation of the highly successful Inn.

In the past few years, Betty Stremich, sister of Bob, and Thomas Stremich, son of Mrs. Margaret Stremich, have been added to the staff in the capacity of assistant managers.

Bob and Mrs. Stremich are partners with the former serving as general manager.

The big expansion program, which reached another level recently with the addition of area measuring 45 by 35 feet, started in 1953 with the addition of the Fireside Lounge with a capacity of 35 and including a large bar.

Then came the Beacon Room in 1954 followed by the Country Room and an enlarged, modern kitchen in 1958.

The Jacob Room, with a capacity of 80, was an addition in 1960 followed by the expansion of the Gift Shop in 1962.

Then came the newest addition in 1967 when the Continental Room was enlarged and renamed the Walden Room with huge picture windows overlooking the nearby parkway and the unique Franklin and Tack Rooms in the 45 by 35 expansion.

The Franklin Room, a private dining room located on the third level, has a capacity of 22 and was constructed strictly for the idea of handling meetings of the numerous nearby industrial plants.

The Tack Room, another small private room, is limited to 10 diners and is geared for small conferences.

Has the Hillside Inn been successful? The answer to that comes from Britt Crowther, head chef for the past 23 years, who is proud of the fact that business is 15 times greater than in 1947.

The Inn has a payroll of more than 70 employees, the majority of whom are fulltime and a few on the part-time list.
