Johnson Asks Higher Ceiling For GI

WASHINGTON -- President Johnson, in a special message, asked that the present leaves of the maximum guarantee on GI home loans be raised to $19,000. Calling the present ceiling me longer adequate, he said the higher ceiling would mean that veterans could buy bigger, more sepensive houses. During the same talk, the Chief Executive also proposed a wholly new profer weerson. "O useach children of the poor, to help man understrength police forces and first of the poor, to help man understrength police forces and first of the poor, to help man understrength police forces and first obscome full-time specialists in anti-powerly work.
