

POSTER DRESSES are sure to be a big smash this summer if the supply ever gets west of New York. They come in several designs, are made of a paper fiber material and will sell in New York, beginning in March, for about $3. The dress is simple: sleeveless, flaring, A-line. You choose your own length with a pair of scissors. The designs here are a rocket and a tiger face. Others available: a giant eye and a macro-rose.

New Chief Named For GOP Teens

A young Traverse City attorney has been appointed state director of the Michigan Teen Age Republican Organization, the party's First Vice Chairman William F. McLaughlin announced today.

Michael A. Dively will succeed Mrs. Alice Smith in the Teen Age Republican position.

Mrs. Smith now is Republican state director for all youth activities.

Dively, 29, was graduated from Williams College (Massachusetts) in 1961. While at Williams, he received a number of scholastic and fraternal honors and was co-captain of the varsity swimming team. He also was a member of the All America Intercollegiate Swimming team. He was graduated from the University of Michigan Law School in 1964.

As director of the Teen Age Republican Organization, Dively will work with the Republican State Central Committee in organizing new TAR clubs and in developing state-wide programs and activities for existing clubs.

Draft Changes Won't Affect Schoolcraft

A recent clarification of Selective Service policy on junior college students should not have any noticeable effect on draft deferments at Schoolcraft College, a college official explained this week.

Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey last week advised local draft boards that they may grant deferments to students at two-year colleges and vocational schools.

There had been some uncertainty about whether students at two-year colleges were included under the general policy of giving deferments to all undergraduate students.

At the same time, Hershey issued a statement that students in a full-time course of study that will not lead to a baccalaureate degree (technical and vocational programs) should be considered for deferments. He added that such students should continue to receive 2A (occupational) deferments rather than 2S (student).

John Webber, assistant dean of student affairs at Schoolcraft, said that Hershey's policy statement would not change the present deferment situation at the college.

He explained that all of the eligible full-time students have been able to get deferred, and that students who plan to transfer to four-year colleges now have student deferments, while those in technical programs have been granted occupational deferments.

However, the occupational deferments are a sore point with junior college officials throughout the nation, Webber said. Schoolcraft is among institutions which are pressing the Selective Service to give vocational and technical students regular student deferments.

"Actually," Webber explained, "with 2A status, the students can become draftable. We would like to see all our students with 2S status. Right now, there is a national movement among junior colleges to get the 2S deferment for technical students."

Webber added, however, that right now neither the college nor the technical students were being hurt by the occupational deferments.

He said that the recent announcement by Selective Service that occupational deferments would be reviewed would not affect students in this category.

Parents Agree On New U-M Hours

Parents of freshman women students at the University of Michigan have, by a wide margin, granted permission for their daughters to participate in the liberalized closing hours for residence halls.

U-M Regents agreed in January to adopt, on an experimental one-term basis, liberalized rules governing closing hours in the women's residences and visitation policies for both men's and women's halls.

Seminar On Drugs Offered

High school students all over Oakland County will be invited to attend one of two seminars to be offered on Drug Addition and Habituation, under the sponsorship of the Oakland County Council of Teen Age Republican Clubs.

At a recent meeting of the Council, John N. O'Brien, Royal Oak attorney, was appointed general chairman for the seminars.

Tentative dates for the two Saturday morning seminars are March 30, and April 6. Letters of invitation will be sent from the TAR Council for the non-partisan seminars to all high school council and student government groups in Oakland County, urging that the school be represented at one of the two sessions offered.

The Council of Teen Age Republican Clubs was formed early in 1967 to provide liaison between the various TAR Clubs in the County and communication between the clubs and members of the senior party organization. Coordinator of TAR activities in Oakland County is Mrs. William Jenkins of Ferndale.

Under the liberalized rules, freshman women obtaining written parental permission will not be subject to closing hours at all. Those without such permission will be subject to the existing rules, which require them to be in their University residence by 12 midnight Sunday through Thursday nights, 1 o'clock on Friday nights, and 1:30 on Saturday nights.

According to the University Housing Office, 1,734 freshmen women live in University Housing. By Feb. 26, signed permission forms had been received from 1,341 parents; 116 parents denied permission, and no response had been received from 277 parents.

The resolution adopted by the Regents in January also permitted each University housing unit to determine, by democratic procedure, its own rules concerning visiting hours for members of the opposite sex. These rules were to be filed with the University Housing Office, and would go into effect as soon as this recording procedure was completed. Any house not filing a new set of rules would continue under existing regulations.

So far, 22 men's residence hall houses, 18 women's residence hall houses, 21 sororities, and eight fraternities have filed new policies.

Among the men's houses, 20 of the 22 provide for 24-hour visitation at some time during the week. Five of the 18 women's residences and six fraternities do likewise. None of the sororities have adopted such a policy.

According to the Housing Office report, "All of the policies submitted include some method of enforcement and protection for the rights of the minority. Some of them are very elaborate and well conceived."

Young Adult Club Seeks Members

A Young Adults Club recently organized in Observerland is looking for more members. The club is open to single young people between 18 and 24.

Known as YYAC, the group is using the resources of the Livonia Family Y, although it is not in a strict sense a "Y" club.

Right now, the group is meeting every Tuesday at 7:30 in the Livonia Y, on Middle Belt between Plymouth and Schoolcraft. The program includes speakers, social events and some planned service projects. Any area young adults interested in the club are welcome to come to a Tuesday meeting or contact Dinwoodie at 281-0370.

FERMENT ON CAMPUS was the theme for a recent week-long series of speakers and discussion groups at Albion College. Deborah Mann, center, a sophomore from Farmington, was the co-chairman for the program. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mann, 30018 Old Bedford. Shown discussing the series with Miss Mann are Dr. Joseph Washington, dean of the Albion Chapel (left), Dr. Stanley Idzerda, dean of Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn., (right), and student Dennis Moore.

Academy Candidates Appointed

Two Observerland students have been nominated by Sen. Robert P. Griffin to compete for appointments to U.S. service academies for the next academic year.

Pvt. Stephen G. Harshfield, 20, of 2160 Collingham, Farmington, will compete for a vacancy in the Military Academy at West Point, N.Y. Douglas K. Netzel, 19, of 17674 Centralia Ave., Redford Township, is a candidate for the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N.Y.

The candidates were selected from almost 400 applicants on the basis of academic records, character and leadership potential. Final selection of appointees will be determined by a selection board at each academy.

Area Girls Attend 'Y' Conference

Varying moods of introspection and exuberance held the attention of over 150 senior high girls who attended the annual State-wide Conference of Y-Teens at Clear Lake Camp near Battle Creek.

Forty-five girls from the Metropolitan Detroit area attended the three-day meeting, sponsored by the YWCA. Portions of the girls' expenses were borne by funds they earned during the recent Y-Teen chocolate sale held in Detroit and suburbs.

With a theme of "Turn Around and Take a Look," the conference featured creative art workshops, winter sports and discussion sessions ranging from teenage emotions and dating to the use of folk music in church services.

The weekend program also included a variety show staged by Detroit area Y-Teens.

The girls who attended from this area were: Mary Owsen, 17384 Beaver; Sue Gagarin, 19707 Glastonbury; Sue Bartlett, 14332 Stork; and Connie Radoloff, 8242 Ashton, all of Redford Township.
