Gardening is basically a contest between the gardener and the plants on ose hand and the walther on the other. The contest arises from the desire to grow plants from totally different climates in our unpreour hot summer with too little

With isome plants, we can beat the weather by starting, them inside and then planting them inside and then planting them inside them to be such that it is a continuous production of the planting becomes extremally important.
THE EARLIEST seeds to plant are peak, both sweet and tarden, larkshur; head istuce and Bibblettnee, popples, either stocks and mustard.
In planting these seeds, there are several points to keep in mind. The first is that a well-drained, loose soil will give best results. These soils dry rapidly and warm up easily. A warm soil, for the season, will speed up root growth and help sprouting too.
A second point, in planting early seeds, is to have a soil that is, well fertilized, frees plants make a rapid growth and a lack of plant food will solve them and prevent them from imaking enough growth slow them and prevent them from imaking enough growth before hot weather arrives and checks them naturales, but if there is none available, add some well rotted humas or peat and some quick-acting plant food. A void using manure, sludge, or similar materials as they require hot weather to release their minerals.

The Active Life by Dan Eams A Gardener's Calendar For The Spring Planting

Are you doing any planting this spring? Just as the birds sense when it's the right time to fly north, gardeners seem to have an instinct about plant-to fiy north, gardeners seem to have an institute about planting.

When the willows are veiled in bright chartrenses and the foreythias true and the foreything the foreyth vegatables outdoors. If the soil is not warm, their ceeds will rot.

This is the planting season for trees and shrubs, Try to expet them into the ground perform the leaves come out, Early spring is the best season for planting fruit frees and thish-barked trees such as birth and dogwood.

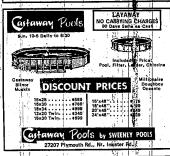

Evergreen trees and shrubs, both needle and broad-leaf thinds; can be planted later in the spring, Mid-May is an ideal time for them.

Plant roses that have bare-roots while they are still dormant. Potted roses can be planted and at any time during the growing season.

ORAS SEED germinales best in cool weather, and should be planted as early in the season.
