

Publisher Held In Contempt; Ignores Senate Subpoena

LANSING -- A state senate committee Wednesday held the publisher of the Detroit News, Peter B. Clark, in contempt of the senate and bodily ejected a federal court courier from its meeting in Gov. George Romney's office.

The courier, Lawrence Van-Hill, a Detroit attorney who represented Clark at an earlier committee meeting, was removed as he served restraining orders prohibiting committee members from interfering with collective bargaining procedures in Detroit's new 171-day newspaper strike.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said he would take appropriate legal action within 24 hours to determine if the governor and the committee are legally subject to jurisdiction of the U.S. District Court in Detroit.

Judge Damon Keith issued the order after Clark had been subpoenaed to appear before the committee. The order declared the subpoena void and also prohibited Gov. Romney from attempting to mediate the strike.

JACKSON -- One fireman was killed and six others injured when fire damaged a tavern and former bowling alley in downtown Jackson last week. Officials identified the dead man as Wilbur Smith, 26, who apparently suffocated when he was trapped in the three-story structure.

LANSING -- The Michigan Court of Appeals has struck down an act requiring motorcyclists to wear crash helmets. The appeals court overturned an Iphigene County decision and ruled that a 1965 law requiring the helmets is unconstitutional, since it protects only cyclists and not the general public.

STATE -- A trans-Michigan waterway running from Port Huron to Benton Harbor, aimed at solving the growing problem of an adequate supply of fresh water for many large, locked communities, is proposed by John R. Snell, Lansing consulting engineer. With major branches to Detroit and Flint, the waterway would cost about half a billion dollars and could be completed by 1975, according to Snell, president of his own engineering firm.

LIVINGSTON COUNTY -- An extensive investigation, that stemmed from an original complaint of possible mishandling of a $441,000 estate in Livingston County Probate Court, was ordered by the State Bar of Michigan last week against certain Livingston County attorneys. The Bar, in an almost precedent-setting action, made public a case it would probe and hired a special investigator to conduct it. Normally, the Bar does not openly discuss complaints that it has under investigation and does not reveal recommendations until they have been filed with the State Supreme Court.

LANSING -- An enriched school aid program aimed at core city and financially weak school district problems was signed into law by Gov. Romney last week. The appropriation allows a $815 million expenditure on the school aid during the 1968-69 fiscal year, up almost $80 million from this year's outlay.

WINN -- Richard H. Head-

lee, former political aide of Gov. Romney, has been named president of Monbank, Inc., a manufacturer of pulpwood and debarking equipment at Wilm, in Isabella County. Headlee, formerly on the staff of Burroughs Corp. in Detroit, helped Romney organize the Christmas in Vietnam project for sending gifts to Michigan servicemen in 1965 and served on the governor's 1966 state campaign staff.

LANSING -- Top salary levels for judges in the proposed new Michigan District courts were cut back last week in Senate amendments to the lower court reorganization bill. In the action, the Senate adopted amendments which would cut the state share of the salary to $15,000 and the top salary to $22,500. The House passed version provided for state salaries of $20,000 for the judges which could be supplemented up to $27,500 by the local districts in which the court is located.

LANSING -- A controversial bill which would provide immunity for certain witnesses in criminal cases was back before the House for final approval after it passed the Senate by a vote of 22-15. It met strong opposition from Senate Democrats during the final action of the upper body with arguments that the bill would expand the one-man grand jury system in Michigan. The bill provides that a circuit court judge, upon application of a prosecuting attorney, may grant immunity from prosecution of certain witnesses in criminal cases in order to obtain their testimony.

PONTIAC -- A young Pontiac man was being questioned last week by Oakland County Sheriffs in the kidnapping of a 19-year-old Pontiac housewife, who said she was left in a rural area and the abduction fled on foot. The Sheriff's Department said that no charges had been filed against the man, who was picked up by authorities near a woods in Genesee County shortly after the incident was reported. Frank Kimison, 14, of Pontiac, said the man held him and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Norman Kimison, at gunpoint and forced them to take him toward Commerce Township where the youth was released and had to walk several miles before reaching a telephone.

DETROIT -- A federal judge has denied a motion to postpone the trial of former Detroit Mayor Louis Miriaman on charges of evading $150,000 in income taxes. U.S. District Judge C.G. Nease of Greenville, Tenn., set the trial for the last week.
