BURROUGHS CORPORATION announces the new C3350 Electronic Calculator which brings silent, instantaneous computing power to the desk top. The C3350 is the top model in a series of four electronic calculators, which vary in computational power and price to allow customers in industry, banking, engineering and science to select the calculator to fit their requirements most economically.

New Burroughs Calculator Line

"WITH THE C3000, Burroughs offers compact calculators which are easy to operate and use a small amount of desk space," MacGondic said.

INDEPENDENT FDECIMAL selection for computing and memory provides increased accuracy by allowing the operator to use a large number of decimals in computations while selecting only the number of decimals considered significant

Selective round-off of products and guotients occurs in the appropriate column accord-ing to the setting of the Mem-ory Decimal Selector. In chain calculation, round-off occurs only on operator command. A versatile recall key allows the operator to re-display any factor in the calculation with decimal points properly placed whenever desired.
