Demand For Physician Services May Force U.S. To Acti

CHICAGO -- The American public's dissatisfaction with the accessibility, convenience, and cost of physician services is a paradox of success, says diversely of Michigan medical educator, "It is so because the quality and value of physician services have improved to the point that the public demand for them exceeds the supply, Dean William N. Hubbard Jr., of the U-M Medical School asserted, DR, BUBBARD, past-presi-

DR, BUBBARD, past-president of the Association of American Medical Colleges, described trends in medical education at the 30th annual assembly of the American Academy of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation here, So highly does the public value readily available, convenient, and reasonably priced health sorvices that unless the traditional health professions meet this demand, alternative systems of health care will be developed by government agencies and consumer groups. The primary commitment of those agencies andgroups "will be to produce the largest number of units of service that

Crime Control Bill Criticized By U-M Prof.

ANN ARBOR -- Parts of the omnthus Crime Control and Safe Streets bill now before the U.S. Senate are a "perversion of the legislative process' and "sub versive of law," University of Michigan Prof. Yale Kamisar has asserted. In a Law Day address be-fore the Washtenaw County Bar fore the Washtenaw County Bar Association here, Kamisar at-tacked Title II of the bill re-cently approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee, Floor de-bate is scheduled shortly,

KAMISAR SAID the section

KAMISAR SAID the section would;
--Effect a legislative "repeal" of recent Supreme Court decisions such as the Escobed and Miranda confession rulings,
--Strip the Supreme Court of the power to review any state court's decision admitting a confession into evidence,
--Remove federal habeas corpus jurisdiction from all state criminal convictions,
The way to overturn the state criminal convictions, the vary to overturn the vary to overturn the court's tinking on the Constitution is by constitution is by constitution amendment, not a statute, Kamisar said. "To solemnly pass Title II into law, in order to try to intimidate the court or register unlappiness or wisiful thinking, seems to be nothing less than a perversion of the legislative process." The bill would resuscitate the "elusive, unruly, uncertain" test of "voluntariness" for admissibility of confessions, the professor said, What is worse is that it "purports

THE FORCES for change call for those responsible for medical education to give increasing attention to meeting those requirements.

"An increasing urbanized and ingly elevated its health expectations. Yesterday's miracle is today's commonplace service. The prevention of premature death is not enough and the fulfillment of human potential unrestricted by limitations in health is the new goal," he said "phenomenon of our time," Dr. Hubbard warned 'unless it is organized toward a common purpose, specialization can be destructive of the very function it seeks of the very function that the very f tice of medicine,

"THE BIOCHEMISTRY of genetic centrol systems, the development of electronic instrumentation, the development and operation of computer systems, and the application of systems analysis to the total apparatus of health care are all technologic advances whose development depends upon skills porting the continuity of the ordinary physician,

included in the training of the ordinary physician,
"Yet the future of the practice of medicine will be influenced heavily by the impact of these news technologies on the work of the ordinary physician," Institutionalization of medical services is rapidly becoming necessary as the individual physician must call upon a larger and more complex array of facilities and services to give maximum help to his patient. The hospital alone cannot meet the needs; The health team, scientific advances, increasing population, and the increased use of net disposable income to purchase health services are other forces for change in medical education.

IN RESPONSE to these forces, the most important concern is that medical education meet the health needs of the mation, There must be increase in the total output of physicians by the nation's medical school.

"Expansion of the existing schools is the only additional source of a significant increase in the output opportunity of the control of the co

Dean Hubbard urged that the medical curriculum be individualized to the needs of the student, "Medical schools and facuities must develop an inculties must develop, an in-creasing awareness of the re-sponsibility of the physician for determining the utilization of the health care system. "A synthesis of research and collaboration of disciplines is necessary, it is esseptial that the student become familiar with specialities in the context of comprehensive and continu-ing patient care, a context no-toriously, absent in the idea of specialization," to remove any check on the otatic courts by purporting to take away the U.S. Supreme court's prover to disturb any way' a state court's finding that an admission or confession was 'voluntarily made.'" Kamisar reminded the country's lawyers of cases where only the Supreme Court had blocked convictions based on confessions settracted by whippings, 36-hour relay questioning, and stripping of prisoners, IN ONE CASE this term an Alabama court ruled a condession "voluntarily made" when the defendant "lay wounded in a prison hospital, still in a kind phine injection, devertian and intense pain, He had earlier the stripping of the condession "voluntarily made" when the defendant "lay wounded in a prison hospital, still in a kind phine injection, devertian and intense pain, He had earlier been ordered at gunpoint to speak his guill or be killed." Kamisar concluded:

"Today, leaders of the Congress and the bench and bar will undoubtedly point with pride to our 'accusatorial, adversary system,' of which the right to our 'accusatorial, adversary system,' of which the right to our 'accusatorial, adversary system,' of which the right to our 'accusatorial, when the proposal is made to deprive the Supreme Court of the power to declare these rights infringed?

"Many speakers across the land are condemning feivil disnotedience" and 'mobbism,' which subvert the basis upon which our law rests, We as lawyers know best of all, however, that Title II is subversive of law, too,

"We are committed to our constitutional system, in which and system, it is indolerable that we deny to the Supreme Court the power to accord that protection when a case is presented.

"We subvert the basis upon which our law rests if we seek to prevent its guarantees from being made effective. But how many who say they are for Taw and order' are willing, when it suits them, to do just that?"
