OAKLAND, Calif. — For the first time in 46 years the American League has witnessed a perfectly pitched baseball game.

Jim (Catifsh) Hunter turned the trick Wednesday night when the Oakland A's blanked the Minnesota Twins, 40.

Hunter retired all 27 of the Twins. Nobody see the base arginst his offerings.

Hunter retired all 27 of the 1 wins. Novoy got on base against his offerings. One has to go back to April 30, 1922, to find the last time such a masterpiece had been recorded in the American League.

On that occasion Charley Robertson of the Chicago White Sox set down 27 straight Detroit

Ken Blaske captured the high and low hurdles as Thurston downed John Clenn, 74-30, in a Northwest Suburban League dual meet.

The triumphy for Thurston came after Thurston had placed fifth in the Central Michigan Relays with 20 points in a field of more than 20 teams.

Hunter helped his own cause by collecting three hits and knocking in three of the A's runs. Perfect games have been more frequent and more recent in the National League.

Jim Bunning, the ex-Tiger, set down 27 straight New York Mets in 1994 and the following year Sandy Koutax followed suit when the Los Angeles Bodgers beat the Chicago Cubs. And who'll forget Don Larson's perfect job in 1956 when he pitched the New York Yanks to victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers without a Dodger seeing first base?
