'CURTAIN GOING UP
"I'm going to die! And the thought of that dark has for years rotted everything for me, all simple joy in life," Pizarro in "The Royal Hunt of the Sun" last weekend at Wayne University's Bonstelle Theater uttered these soul-searching thoughts. Throughout "Royal Hunt of the Sun" you witness man's tormented search for immortality and his hope that death will not overtake him. The barbaric conquest of Peru by Francisco Pizarro provides much of the action for this philosophic drama. Peter Shaffer's words, however, permeate the entire and keep your thoughts spinning long after you have left the theater.
SHAFER constantly challenges the audience about society's defense to organized religion. He asks in strident tones: what has it really done for mankind? Where does peace truly reign? Is the thirst for blood in the name of religion ever slacked?
In "Royal Hunt" a strong sense of the theater's belief in nature and worship of the Sun is presented. Yet by the end of the play, Mr. Shaffer lets the audience make up its own mind. No firm solution either way is offered.
How does such a bold, well-written play fare at the hands of student actors? Not too well. Normally, the Bonstelle Players dispatch themselves in a most professional manner. "The Rose Tattoo" and "A Funny Thing" were two early examples of perfect productions.
The original production on Broadway featured a bare stage with only a wooden pyramid center stage. The huge gold-pointed sun opened dramatically and dominated the entire stage. More than 400 lights, quite visible on eight buttons gave the play dramatic lighting effects. In addition to the lighting, the spectacular costumes put the Broadway production in the "must-see" classification.

Jarkey Due At 24 Karat
Harry Jarkey, one of the nation's top comedians and a master of night club entertainment, will return to the 24 Karat Club, Telegraph at Six Mile, for a four week engagement beginning Monday, June 3.
It will be the fourth appearance at the 24 Karat Club this year for the bouncy, kooky comedian from Nashville, Tenn. Jarkey, remembered here as the star of his own comedy show for two years at WXYZ-TV, has a repertoire that includes funny character parts, the use of guitar with comedy songs and trumpet and trombone routines. Sharing the bill with him for the first two weeks of his engagement will be Ramona Bittie, versatile acrobatic dancer; Pearl May, song stylist; and Harry Harris, 76-year-old young former partner of Jimmy Durante, singing his gay 90's songs.
Nationally famous comedian Johnny Verdi will wind up a three weeks stint this week end.
Crabbrook Sets Bell Concert
The first woman carillonist, invited to play at the Bell Tower in Lake Wales, Fla., will present a recital on the bells of Christ Church Crabbrook, Bloomfield Hills, at 3 p.m., June 2.
She is Mrs. Richard (Beverly) Buchanan, of Birmingham, carillonist and assistant organist at Christ Church.
Mrs. Buchanan is a graduate of the University of Michigan School of Music where she studied carillon under Prof. Percival Price.
She is a member of the Guild of Carillonists of North America and is currently serving as chairman of the committee on carillon music for that organization. During the week of the Guild's annual Congress next month at Bok Tower who has been invited to present a recital.
The June 2 presentation as all others is open to the public without charge. Concert-goers may sit in their cars or on the church lawn.
