Annuals-Lots Of Color, Easy To Grow, Cheap

By BETTY FRANKEL
Special Writer Everyone loves a bargain and wants a let for a little cost.
A packet of annual flower seeds will cost only a few cents but can produce enough plants to make a big splash of color in the garden.

The seeds are easy to plant, and can be spread on the ground right where you want the plants to grow and bloom.
Cover them lightly writs colt and keeps them moist will they so the plants of the plants to thick and close together so they will have to be thinned out.

The plants you remove can be given away or planted in another part of the garden.

THE TRICK for easy, quick success is to choose seeds of plants that come into bloom quickly and are blooming within a west alyseum, which is one of the most popular plants for edging beds, will be in bloom in less than six weeks after the seeds are planted. They will continue to flower until late in fall. This low plant comes in white, lavender, or deep purple.
Bachelor buttons or corn-purple, Bachelor buttons or corn-flower (centaurea) also grow rapidly and bloom early. The plants grow about 18 inches tail and have flowers of a lovely intense shade of bluethat seems to complement all other flower colors. There are also varieties with pale plak or wine red flowers. The backled red flowers, to the backled range of colors from white and pale buff to plak, lawender, red, marcon and scarlet. The flowers may be a solid single color or they may be marked with a contrasting eye or star citriged edge, Sometimes the petals are rounded. On other plants they may be pointed or fringed, They grow from sits to 10 inches high and are always sprightly and therming.

ANNUAL POPPIES are easy to grow if planted in a sunny spot.

The flowers are like fragile, crumpled silk and come in exquisite shades of rose, pink, apricot, crimson as well as white. Perhaps lovellest of all are the type known as "Shirley popples." These sometimes reach two feet in height,

Popples do not transplant well, so they should be planted where they are to bloom and the thinnings discarded, Repeated plantings can be made to have bloom all during the summer, Marigolds and zinnias are also in the quick and easy category as long as the weather is
