Look For Latest Styles When Buying Gowns

When buying a dress, do you just look for something in the latest style that fits well? If you do, you're out of date. Fashion and fit are important, of course. But you can—and should—expect much more when buying any garment.

Who manufactured the garment? What is the fiber content of the fabric? What fabric finishes have been used? How should you care for the garment? The answers to these questions are the key to what you can expect from the garment, according to the experts at the Maytag Company. A good sales person should be able to give you this information. But if the clerk can't, the hanging can.

Most garments have one or more hangtags to call certain things to your attention. The trick—for you—is to know just what those things mean. To help you interpret those hangtags and find out the answers to those important questions, an information packed booklet, "Do You Know How to Read a Hangtag?" is now a valuable free of charge.

You can obtain your copy by writing to: Consumer Information Center, Maytag Company, Newton, Iowa 50208.
