Peg O' My Heart

Oliver Morosco will present at the Garrick Theatre, Detroit, for one week, commencing Monday, March 2, with the usual matinees on Wednesday and Saturday, his production of J. Hartley Manners' overwhelmingly successful comedy, "Peg O' My Heart," which has broken all the dramatic records of a decade in New York City, with Lauretta Taylor's creation of Peg which is at present running for a second uninterrupted season at the New York Cort Theatre. The extraordinary success of "Peg O' My Heart" is unquestionably accounted for by its humanity and wholesomeness-two elements which in these days of bizarre mechanical plots and tawdry sexuality are put so far in the background as to be almost mythological. "Peg O' My Heart" proved conclusively that New York can still laugh heartily and sincerely at humor which is not coarse, and that simple story, directly and simply told, is more potent than any plot fantastic, complex or merely oute. The following well known players are in the cast: Elsa Ryan in the title role; Lillian Keller, Fanny Addison Pitt, Wilda Mari Moore, Henry Stanford, Lewis Broughton, Gilbert Douglas, Frank Burbeck and Roy Cochrane.

Redford Man Interested in Radium Question claims after the bill becomes a law, and does not apply to those now owning carnotite claims. If the producer objects to the price set by the Secretary of the Interior he has redress in the courts.

From the standpoint of the producer Mr. Wilmarth is of the opinion that the situation is better at this time than it was before this agitation came up, in the fact that it has stimulated the price of carnotite ores, to a healthy market at the highest prices paid before with the prospect of sending the price still higher.

The new bill does not prevent the shipping of the ore to Europe and the producers who are now working claims can dispose of their ores at any place they can get the best prices.

Mr. Wilmarth was at New York on his way to Europe at the time that the critical period arrived in the radium negotiations in Washington and he did not think it wise to embark on his journey while things were in such a condition at Washington. Hence he has spent most of the time in Washington battling for the life of the carnotite industry.

Consequently he found it necessary to postpone his trip to Europe for about thirty days while he came back to look after his carnotite business which held his attention at this particular time. He expects to make another try at the European trip in about 30 days.

OYSTER CRABS.

They Are a Distinct Species and Are Hatched in the Bivalve.

Oyster crabs, those tiny, dainty, pink titbits, are a delicacy highly prized and correspondingly expensive. As the crabs, when taken from their homes in oyster shells, live but a short time, each day's work unless there are orders for live shipments to adjacent points. The partially boiled crab is shipped in glass containers, in which shape it can be had in the stores. It is better so for small as they are, like all other shellfish, they should never be eaten unless they are alive when thrown into boiling water.

A general idea is that the oyster crab is a baby soft shell, but she (for the edible oyster crab is always a female) is an entirely different species from the blue crab, which is the soft shell of commerce and is after theater supper with the oyster and carries her eggs into the oyster shell, her young being hatched there and ejected by the oyster only when they become so numerous and lively as to be a nuisance to the foster mother.

The males then assume a hard shell and a dirty brown and shift for themselves, as they can. The female crab, of a dainty pinkish white hue, scurry about to escape their enemies until they reach a Broadway restaurant via the oyster dealer.

This protected life makes the shell of the female oyster crab degenerate into a "murex" membrane, and her legs become so weak that she cannot get about or survive at all away from the friendly companionship of the oyster.

Whether it is true that she is a scavenger for and eater to the oyster is a question the scientists are divided over. At all events she becomes a dainty morsel and shrinks so in the cooking processes that it doesn't seem as if you were getting much for your money when you order an omelet, patty or salad of oyster crabs.

But what you do get is a sublimated reminder of the daintiest shrimp you ever ate, with about the same relationship in flavor that a mushroom has to a Brussels sprout.-Buffalo Express.

Told of Turner.

Turner, the English painter, was blunt spoken and often gruff, but on occasion he unbent enough to jest-occasionally at his own expense.

His famous picture, "The Slave Ship"-that wonderful combination of flaming and gorgeous colors-was once described by an exasperated critic as "a cat having a fit in a dish of tomato salad." Turner had never heard the phrase, but once when a salad was passed to him at a dinner he put on a critical and considering air as he regarded it and remarked to his neighbor: "Nice, cool green, that lettuce, isn't it? And the beetroot is pretty red, not quite strong enough, and the dressing, delicate tint of yellow, that! Add some mustard and then you have one of my pictures!"

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

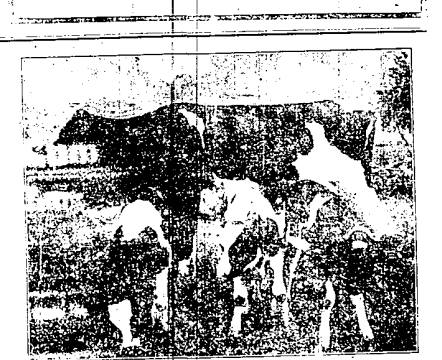

Is the Housewife's Greatest Help.

WHAT so tempting to the laggard appetite as a light, flaky, fruit short cake or a delicate hot biscuit?

Royal makes the perfect short cake, biscuit and muffin, and improves the flavor and healthfulness of all risen flour-foods.

It renders the biscuit, hot-bread and short cake more digestible and nutritious, at the same time making them more attractive and appetizing.

Royal Baking Powder is indispensable for the preparation all the year round of perfect foods.

Triplets born to a registered Holstein cow owned by Martin L. McLaughlin of Redford. They took first prize at the state fair in 1913. These calves were born July 18, 1913, their dam being Pontiac Hazel and their sire Sir Double Koradylke. At birth one weighed 70 pounds and two 60 pounds each; at six months one weighed 400 pounds, another 385 pounds. According to the records of the American Holstein-Friesian association there is only one other instance known of a cow giving birth to triplets where all three lived and were registered. Pontiac Hazel has the record of giving birth to five heifers in 27 months and is due to calve again in July. These were bred and are owned by Martin L. McLaughlin, who lives at the corner of Plymouth and Mill road near Redford.
