

New Purchase Plan For Yearbooks

A new purchase plan for this year's yearbook has been worked out to cover the two dollar cost of the book. Students ordering yearbooks during the November 15 to December 1 sales period can pay on the down and the balance in March if they desire.

No extra books will be ordered, the yearbook staff says. Only students who have placed their orders during the sale period will receive the books.

"Your yearbook is something you will want to keep for a long time, just to remind you of your old school days," says Arlene Diddams, head of the group selling the books. Other salesmen are Mary Lou Merlams, Bill Aetion, Phyllis Brown, Jan Baileys, Edward Chapel, Stanley Kroll and Lola Gregory.

Senior Starlight

Our attraction from the male section, this week comes in the form of Warren Wilson. Warren arrived in this wonderful world on December 19, 1932. He has lived nearly 18 years with blonde hair, hazel eyes and dimples.

Warren likes loafing, Ford's steak, baseball, water kreisel, "Frieda" (the song), messing with cars, football, Hank Williams (the band), and girls when nothing else is nearby.

He dislikes — hard work, government, spinach, boycotts on girls' levels on girls, putting on a suit, wearing a tie, Army draft boards, and any girl driving his car.

Warren's ambition — none.

His owns — one car, one tie, one pair of jeans, one government book (damn it), and one head of blonde, wavy hair (nothing underneath it, either).

Warren's pet peeve — In case you haven't already guessed "government."

A. A. Carol Frey, senior class secretary, is our "girl of the week." Carol was born on September 15, 1934. She is about five feet, five inches tall, with diaphanous blonde (she uses Tide) hair and blue-green eyes.

Carol likes bright orange, girls' basketball and boys' football and probably plays as fast as any of the other since we whirl through life these days at a rapid pace. But our minds, this year perhaps, are more in tune with our religious faith.

Our present secretary is bountiful, the future faces crucial times. Those who know God will tell you that this Thanksgiving Day is an important time to stop, look about oneself, and give thanks.

And to continue doing so every day for the rest of your life.

"Thanksgiving at home" seems to be the theme of our neighborhood this year, and we've just about worn out the telephone wires to prove it.

A pre-Thanksgiving trip to Cornucopia Sunday was made for Mrs. and Mr. Alan Halko, David, and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Halko to visit the latter's sister, Mrs. William Quayle. But they're eating Thanksgiving dinner at home on Lisa Street.

Lee Hasley and his brother-in-law, Russell Gable of Plymouth, did their best hunting last week away from Kalkaska at Elk Lake. Their wives enjoyed the Hasley's new car while the men were away, and kept each other company. Mr. and Mrs. Hasley and Gary will be eating turkey tomorrow at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barthauer of 15133 Grayfield, Detroit.

Sisters, Mrs. Russell Waack of Lisa Street and Mrs. Don Schlack, Roosevelt Street, were "widows" last week, too. Their misters "defunct" off hunting, however. They were in Cleveland, Ohio, on business.

Thomas Munn of 25923 Scotten was in Toronto last week at the annual exposition. His brother from Nova Scotia was showing flower exhibits from his greenhouses.

Those of you who are spending your Thanksgiving week end at home might enjoy taking a walk over to the St. Paul's Lutheran School Friday evening at 8 o'clock to see a movie on children's play and its importance. It's one of a series of very good movies sponsored by the school's PTA. And the reason we know anyone is welcome is that we heard about some people who drove out from Farmington to see their last movie after reading about it in The Enterprise. They had to ask directions to find the church but were made very welcome when they reached there. A round table discussion will follow the movie.

Last Friday evening the Carlyle Haight home, 29220 Dresden Street, was exploding with "round table discussions." Daughter Nita was hostess of a stork shower for Mrs. Carl Trouteau, the former Mitzi Koldjeski of Deering Street. Former classmates in on the fun were Sally Pfeiffer, Janet LaPollette, Maureen Waack, Marilyn Winters, Sally Schneider, Barbara Wynotte, Jean Cashman, and LeVina Boling. Also there were Martha Rozenboom, Iola Edmonds, Winnie Smith, Pat Simms, and Virginia Percherd.

Thanksgiving 1950 is just a few hours away. We have nice modern ovens to roast our wonderful turkeys and pies in. On the day probably the most important of the year since we whirl through life these days at a rapid pace. But our minds, this year perhaps, are more in tune with our religious faith.

Mr. Miller Attends Principals' Meeting

Mr. Miller attended a principals' meeting. The discussion was led by Mr. M. G. Burdick of Redford Union High School on the topic of "Combining Subjects that are Related to Each Other." The plan is similar to the Cove Curriculum used in many schools.

Several schools have tried this plan with good results. The feeling of the group was that the students liked their subjects better and did better in them. Further reports will be made at a later date. The next meeting will be December 14.

One Plus Zero Equals R. Selke

One of the new additions to the teaching staff this year has a description of an ideal man for any woman. He is 5' 11" tall and weighs 160 pounds and is only 28 years old.

He graduated from Rufus High School in Wisconsin, then proceeded to Central Michigan College where he graduated in 1949.

His favorite sport is basketball and his favorite song is that dreamy piece "Stardust." When asked his favorite past-time he replied, "Well . . ." He loves dogs, and if he had a choice of any dog on the market he would choose a German shepherd. Of course, everyone loves movies, but our teacher of the week prefers movies dealing with psychiatry. But of course, who else could this man be but Mr. Selke, mathematics instructor and basketball coach.

FOR HIGH COMPRESSION...

IT'S THE "ROCKET"!

Maybe you're ready—like we are—for a little brass-tacks talk about high-compression. Since Oldsmobile introduced the "Rocket" Engine two years ago, seems like everybody claims "high-compression"—but nobody explains it. The phrase simply means squeezing the gasoline into a smaller space before exploding it. This gets more power out of the same amount of fuel. But the engine must be designed for high-compression all the way through to assure smooth, quiet, gas-saving performance. The "Rocket" is 100% high-compression—from the crankshaft out. And the lowest-priced "Rocket" Engine car is Oldsmobile's "88." Makes good sense to try it soon—doesn't it?

Monitor's Washington Chief At Town Hall

Joseph C. Harsch, Chief of the Washington Bureau of the Christian Science Monitor, will discuss up-to-date national and international news at Detroit Town Hall Wednesday morning, November 23, at 11 o'clock in the Fisher Theatre.

Harsch broadcasts the capital news in addition to his Monitor writing. At the beginning of the war he served briefly as Assistant Director of the Intergovernmental Committee on Political Refugees. He covered the Louisiana massacre and was in Honolulu at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack, after which he went to the South Pacific and saw the war in the Austro-Hungarian and in 1945 he returned to Europe as a war correspondent and was in Europe again in 1947 and 1949.

Advance reservations for the lecture are available at Grinnell's, WO. 21124.
