WINTER'S OFFICIAL ARRIVAL DUE EARLY ON DECEMBER 22

What happens in the way of weather, after 5:14 a.m. Eastern Standard Time, on Friday, December 22, can be properly charged against Winter.

What has happened thus far was only the forerunner of winter, according to Dr. Haze M. Losh, assistant professor of astronomy at the University of Michigan who has consulted the astronomical charts to find the exact moment when winter begins.

"During most of December, the sun will be more than 22 degrees south of the equator but on December 22 it will reach the most southern point in its apparent yearly journey around the earth," Dr. Losh reports.

Since it will have its shortest daily path across the sky, the day will be only nine hours long and the night will last for 15 hours, the shortest and longest respectively of the year, she points out. But once again, she explains that the conservation of heat by the earth and atmosphere blanket will keep the coldest weather of the season from occurring at the time of the shortest day.

"During December and especially in the Christmas season, some of the most beautiful and colorful stars in all the heavens light the eastern horizon — in the evening," Losh says. "There is no constellation that equals the splendor and beauty the giant Orion striding majestically across the southern sky."

This constellation proceeds and announces the approaching rise of Sirius, the "brightest star in the whole heavens. Other bright spots in the east at about 9 p.m. are the Twins in Camelopardalis at the same time during the Christmas season the Northern Cross can be seen standing upright in the west with the bright Deneb marking the top of the cross.

Orion can be spotted quite easily through three bright stars in a row mark the belt that holds the sword of this mighty hunter. Dr. Losh says, these point directly downward toward Sirius. Just appearing over the horizon by 9 p.m. and point upward toward the orange Aldebaran in Taurus.

Two other stars in Orion command attention because of their brightness. Betelgeuse, the star that marks one shoulder of Orion, has the largest diameter of all the stars but is so distant that the light we see now left the star around the year 1650. Brightest star in Orion is the blue-white Rigel which is so far away that the light has been on its way to the earth since 1400. If Rigel was the same distance from the earth as the Sun, it would be 15,000 times brighter.

Castor and Pollux, the two bright stars in Gemini, are northeast of Orion.

Bacon Curls With Eggs — Bakes every other meal, breakfast can be an important occasion during the Christmas season. With a great deal of time already accounted for on your calendar, a solution as to how to entertain may be a week end breakfast. This early morning plan also may be just right for that something special for your family and holiday house guests.

Nake bacon curls and eggs in a goldenrod the famous center of your meal. Serve the eggs in pastry baskets for a tempting change. Simply prepare bacon curls in this manner: cut strips of bacon in half, roll and fasten with wooden picks. Place the rolls in a frying pan and cook over low heat. Pour off the drippings as they accumulate in the pan. When cooked, remove the picks and there are your little bacon curls ready to surround the pastry baskets.

Prepare the egg baskets with pastry cut into 1/4-inch rounds baked in muffin pans. Add chopped, hard-cooked egg whites to cream sauce and pour in the baked cups, then sprinkle with egg yolks prepared through a sieve. Stir this morning meal with orange and grapefruit sections.

A light brown suit was selected by the bride for the quiet ceremony before Rev. Carl Schultz, Donna Graham, sister of the bride, was maid of honor at the 8 p.m. wedding. Thesen Jones, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride's mother wore navy blue print with black accessories, and the groom's mother chose blue crepe, also with black accessories. Both wore corsages of gardenias. A reception following the single ceremony was held at the bride's home, decorated for the occasion with white bells, chrysanthemums and carnations. About 50 people were served by Mrs. Wallace McDonald and Mrs. Alfred Brown.

The couple will be at home January 2 at 6225 Halsted Road, Walled Lake, after a trip to Washington and Virginia.

By Bob Kettler

Now we're always heard the term "death and taxes" linked in one breath. The other day we went to thinking about it and discovered that death has one big advantage . . . It doesn't get worse every time that Congress meets.

So now it comes about that in a couple of more weeks, it's Christmas once again. A lot of water has certainly flowed under our personal bridge since Christmas last, and some of the water had meat in it. Here we are dealers for the Studebaker people who certainly manufacture a most economical, powerful, comfortable, roomy car and how about selling you one. But what we meant to say was, we've got a lot of fine accessories on hand, that will make a truly tremendous Christmas gift for the folk you know now driving a Studebaker. Drop around, we'll be glad to help you solve the major portion of your Christmas giving problem with a gift that will give lasting satisfaction and is certain to be most appreciated.

Our parts department man, whose memory reaches from here to there and maybe a little further, told us of a conversation he overheard in a local bar. Now maybe he shouldn't have been there unless he has no television set of his own, but according to him, two women were having a most confidential chat about the trials and tribulations of all women in general and of themselves in particular. One of the two girls finally put a clincher to the discussion with "No woman can be an angel all the time and still work like the devil."

So much for that, but we've discovered lately that many of the folk who buy Studebakers are a little quick on the smart side for us. We can't keep up with the stories they pass out. Like one old girl, who brought him, two women were having a most confidential chat about the trials and tribulations of all women in general and of themselves in particular. One of the two girls finally put a clincher to the discussion with "No woman can be an angel all the time and still work like the devil."

Well, we got to go back to work again, but someone once told us that a man's best bet was to marry a homely girl. She may have the will to give him trouble, but doesn't have the means.

Yours,
