School Spirit Lags Again

One of the first editorials written in our school paper was one which we called "School Spirit". This subject has been brought up by many students as well as the parents of the community.

The objective of school spirit is not only the attendance at the basketball or football games. This lags deeper than the surface of our everyday activities.

When you walk down the halls or open your locker and someone is in the way, what do you do? Push them away or shove them to the floor? Is this what you call school spirit to fellow classmates?

The students should have respect for their fellow classmates as well as their teachers and parents.

When you become a freshman in high school, you should have grown up enough to realize the responsibility you hold as a high school student.

Our home room classes are very busy when we have meetings. During these meetings we have a few inconsiderate people who think they know everything and need nothing from anyone concerning their class activities. Here is another example. We have no consideration in class meetings towards the students who are only trying to help.

The complaints of many students are heard all over. There is a time and place for those things. Each class has a student council member. They can suggest your improvements to the council and action can be taken if deemed necessary. So let's try to improve the entire situation with more of the old school spirit.
