Devoted to the upbuilding of Farmington and Oakland County

Guess there's no doubt but what Mr. Ground Hog got a good square look at his shadow a few weeks ago.

The ladies of this vicinity have worked wonders in building up the local library. The least we can do in return would be to show a grain of appreciation.

Every business house in this village should have a representative advertisement in this paper. It would help you help your patrons, help us and help Farmington.

A nearby editor has solved the problem of finding who is the best christian in his town. Very simple method too, and don't even have to bother the minister by inquiring—just asks the church treasurer.

A street car conductor was recently commended in the service bulletin for holding his car until a treble old lady had found and occupied a seat in the car. It's a pretty safe assertion that there are places "higher up" for that kind of employees, and they invariably get them.

Again we repeat, "A town is often judged by its home paper," not only by the reading matter it contains, but by the advertising it contains. A town made up of progressive business men is sure to be a progressive town, and progressive business men everywhere be have in advertising.

The editor is in receipt of a letter from Congressman S. W. Smith, which breathes a word of welcome and a wish for our success in our new field at Farmington. It is the little things like this that make life worth living, and we can anticipate our first meeting with the honored congressman from Oakland county with a great deal of pleasure.

A prominent business man told us last week that the business men of Farmington "had never pulled together." A booster or commercial club would remedy this, and would find them all pulling in the same direction together, in a very short time. It will mean a new era—a bigger, better and more progressive Farmington. Who'll start the ball rolling.

Representative business men of Royal Oak (this county) have organized an association to boost the village and advertise its advantages, so says a late news item. On every side the movement is taking foot—last week we reported a similar move at Birmingham—next week it will be another we hope, and each succeeding week should see a similar organization perfected in every city and village in the county. Let's see to it that Farmington gets into the list of progressives early in the game.

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE—In the matter of the estate of James Lane.

deceased. The undersigned having been appointed by the Hon. Kleber P. Rockwell, Judge of Probate in and for the County of Oakland, State of Michigan, Commissioners to receive, examine and adjust all claims against said estate, and four months from the 16th day of March, A.D. 1914, having been allowed by said Judge of Probate to all persons holding claims against said estate, in which to present them, to us for examination and adjustment, notice is hereby given that we will meet on the 10th day of May, 1914, and on the 10th day of July, 1914, at ten o'clock a. m. of each day at Blackwell & Blackwell's office, in the City of Pontiac, in said county, for the purpose of receiving and adjusting said claims.

FRANCIS G. ELY,
E. E. BLACKWELL,
Commissioners.

The many local friends of Miss Myra Elizabeth Dickinson, formerly of this place, and who of late has made her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dickinson, at Salem, and Mr. Roy Hatton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hatton of this place, will recognize the photos of the two, published above, and will be agreeably surprised to learn of their marriage at Jacksonville, Florida, on Friday of last week, at the home of the bride's brother.

Both of the young people are well known and highly respected in this community, both having graduated from the local schools. The bride is an estimable young lady of fine personality, and has always been prominent in social circles, while the groom is a young man of sterling qualities and habits and holds a position as circulation manager with the Detroit Free Press.

The young couple are expected to return to Detroit tonight or tomorrow, where they will make their future home, and will be at home to friends after April 15, at 53 Maryland avenue, after a week's honeymoon trip through the east.

A reception will be tendered the newly married couple at the home of the groom's parents, this place, next Thursday evening, to which numerous relatives and friends have been invited, and which it is expected will be one of the larger social events of the season.

Both of the young people are well known and highly respected in this community, both having graduated from the local schools. The bride is an estimable young lady of fine personality, and has always been prominent in social circles, while the groom is a young man of sterling qualities and habits and holds a position as circulation manager with the Detroit Free Press.

The play is in three acts, and is one that will doubtless prove popular with the patrons of the popular Washington theatre.

The play contains some unusual lines and scenes, and is one that cannot fail to command and hold interest from start to final curtain.

Usual matinees and prices will prevail.
