

ROLLING DOWN THE RIVER

By Bob Kettler

Once when we were young there lived a farmer with a most amazing horse. Now this horse, though blind, was of super muscle and went busily around the place, plowing the fields, pulling the cultivator, hauling wood and doing numerous other things that horses are expected to do on a well run farm. An uncle of ours was walking along the country road one time, for no really good reason, except he didn't own a Studebaker in those days. He heard this farmer plow his field and shouting to his horses, "No Pat, get up Mike, gee Pete, get along Bill." So our uncle looked up and was somewhat surprised to find that instead of four horses, there was but one horse, one farmer and a two-team gang plow.

So over to the farmer he goes and asks, how come all that noise and all those horses, when it was plain to see there was only one horse and a plow much too big.

"Not so loud," said the farmer. "Bill here is blind and so powerful he doesn't know his own strength. The plow is nothing for him to handle as long as he figures he has three helpers."

Now the reason we tell this story is that in some ways it reminds us of the '51 V8 Studebaker Commander, the car that doesn't know its own strength. The longer you drive it, the more you'll be amazed at the surging power to be found under the hood. Quick as a wink, too, yet with absolute control and a surprising economy. You'll have to come in for a demonstration and convince yourself that the '51 Studebaker is the finest car on the road today.

Lots of people 'round and about are selling tickets on practically everything. Just a straight cash outlay as far as we're concerned, because we've never won anything in our life. As a matter of fact, we've not doing some target practice with twenty-two rifles the other day and after several shots at the target a friend offered to bet a dollar that we wouldn't hit the side of the barn. Lost the bet, too, because after we got in the barn and carefully shut the door, the dog-gone bullet went through a knot-hole.

No shop commercial that week, but if you're smart, you'll bring the car in for a complete lubrication and motor tuneup, now that hot weather is about to arrive. Really got to take care of your car when the temperature gets up in the nineties.

Lady customer of ours was telling us her husband is the most gentle, most patient, most easygoing soul on earth. We figure the guy is just too dog-gone lazy.

Yours,
BOB KETTLER

They stopped traffic at Harrisville last week, our local Girl Scouts from Troop 8. Wearing raincoats, boots and kerchiefs, they made quite a spectacle wading into the little northern Michigan town near Lake Huron. Mrs. Arthur Colvin of Gillman Street mailed a pair of hip boots to the rain-soaked Scouts last week, after spending several days there. "It got kind of monotonous staying in tents all the time," she said.

The girls are sticking it out until their two weeks' jaunt is over, however, on July 15. With their leader, Mrs. Gordon Moore, and her assistant, Mrs. Homer Berry, those attending are Lois Colvin, Patsy Roy, Margaret Whalen, Marjory Whalen, Barbara Schmidt, Donna Dorna, Beverly Colvin, Donna Cobb, Beverly Berry, Nancy Moore, Elaine Johnson, Sharon Moreland, Judy Wing, Maurine Dalley and Carol Benestee.

Carol's pop and mom, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Benestee of 29330 Gillman, said "Hi" to the tent-bound Scouts last Thursday while on a quick trip to Oscoda. A former Clarenceville teacher, their sister, is visiting at the Benestes, do you remember her? She's Mrs. Walter Stuart, now of Redondo, California, and with her are her husband and daughter Gloria. They're spending about five weeks here, catching up on old friends they've missed in their four years' absence. Also spending the summer here are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benestee from Escanaba, who also are Farmington old-timers.

Visiting at the Guy R. Buzo home on List Street from Detroit, Wisconsin, last week were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Talmadge. Mr. Talmadge, who broke legs last August and still is wearing a cast, was a very welcome sight to his daughter, Mrs. Marvin Buzo, now of Northwestern Michigan. She could hardly get enough of her year-old grandson, Byron, who had changed from baby to boy since their last journey here.

Canadian citizens just spent a week at the Harold McCague-Jewell ranch home at 29135 Scotton Street. From Toronto came Miss Ethel Smith (and she didn't have any pipe organs with her!). Mr. and Mrs. Rye MacDonald from Gault, Ontario, and representing Collingwood is Mrs. McCague's mother, Mrs. Charles Simmon, who is spending the summer here, they hope.

Going down to of Virginia this week is Mrs. Leon Bury of List Street and seven year old Marie. Their destination is the home of Mrs. Bury's sister, Mrs. V. B. Walsh of Richmond, Virginia; but they'll be "gadding around" to see lots of people since Virginia is the home state of both Mr. and Mrs. Bury. They were able to hitch a free ride as far as Camp Pope, North Carolina, with daughter Helen and her husband, Sgt. Paul Wooley. Just winding up a fun-fun, the Wooleys had visited his relatives in Canada.

Lawn picnic tables in Meadowbrook Heights were a popular place on the Fourth. Up at the Martin Ulrich home at 29204 Eight Mile, where the new fence is going up, Berkley and Royal Oak were represented by the Allen Hitts and Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Ulrich.

A big day for their memory book was jotted down by the George Johnsons and children Sandra and Larry, who not only occupied their own table on Belfast Street, but tables at Lola Valley Park and those of relatives in Redford. Accompanying them was their chery friend, Mary Ellen Ruff, who urged them down to "Ruff's Hollow" at the end of Scotton Street to wind up the end of a perfect day. There was quite a kids' paradise there that day, with many friends of Mrs. Charlene Swarthout and son Robert joining the fun. They tried out the new barbeque on a lamb, and, worn out from play and good eating, the guests sat down on the ravine, come evening, to watch a brilliant fireworks display.

It's a lot quieter at the Donald Ruff home this week since their grandson, Robert Swarthout, returned from the hospital Monday. Although he underwent a delicate eye operation, Rob was able to come home the same day; he has plenty of nurses on hand: Mom, Grandma, and fond aunties. A bit of your prayers would help this lad, who just passed into the second grade at Central School, with rapidly dimming eyesight. Born with his eye condition, this is Robert's second operation and he's perfect vision he longs for.

It's happy news from the Shafer home at 29224 List Street, where the stock dropped off a bundle about 3 a.m. Monday morning, July 3. New parents are Ed and Violet Shafer, and the bundle is pink. We'll have her name and other personal data for you next week.

Name Assistant For Lands Division Chief

Joseph D. Stephansky has been appointed assistant chief of the conservation department lands division. With the department since 1933, Stephansky has been in charge of leasing state-owned lands and mineral rights for oil and gas and with all mineral lands in 1945. He joined the land acquisition section of the lands division in 1939 and did extensive work on acquiring lands for the Porcupine Mountains state park. Stephansky began work with the department as a conservation officer and was for six years assistant district supervisor at Newberry. He is a graduate of the Pennsylvania State College School of Forestry.

Clifford Humphrys, who has been working on the lands division office program in southern Michigan, will take over Stephansky's former position. Both men assumed their new duties July 1.

Few State Waters Hold White Bass

The white bass, one of the many species of fish found in Michigan inland waters, is a stranger to the average fisherman's creel.

The angler wanting to add this fish to his "caught" list, the conservation department advises, will have to concentrate on a relatively few waters mainly in western Michigan. The cannibalistic white bass—with a larger suitable habitat in the Mississippi drainage area—is caught in Michigan in White Lake and River near Whitehall and Lake Macatawa and Black River near Holland. Other Lake Michigan—connecting lakes where they are found are Pentwater, Muskegon and Manistee, adjacent to the cities with the same names. This species is found in Devils and Round Lakes in Lenawee County and possibly waters connecting with Lake Erie.

One of the fastest hatching fish, white bass have been caught up to three pounds and measuring 18 inches in length. This fish will nab the angler's live minnow, grub or worm. It has been known to rise to a fly. Night hook and line fishing with a lantern is legal.

Michigan sportsmen normally do not fish for them in Lakes Michigan and Erie.

INVENTORY OF HIGGINS LAKE NOW READY

Now available to fishermen is the "Lake Inventory Summary of Higgins Lake," first map including complete description of a Michigan lake to be printed by the conservation department's institute for fisheries research.

Information included with the map was obtained by a survey of the lake by institute crews. It includes description of the lake's geographical and geological details, species of fish present, location of brush shelters placed to improve fishing, public access points, biological features and recommendations for fisheries management.

Information on approximately 1,800 other lakes in Michigan which have been surveyed by the institute is available in map form only without descriptive material.

The Higgins Lake inventory summary can be obtained from the Institute for Fisheries Research, University Museums Annex, Ann Arbor, or from the conservation department, Lansing.

MSC Prexy Starts Second Decade As Head Of Fast-Growing College

Dr. John A. Hannah began his second decade as president of Michigan State College Monday, July 2.

The past decade under his presidency has been the most significant in the 96 year history of the college. It was a period marked by the emergence of Michigan State College as one of the nation's leading universities, not only in terms of enrollment and physical facilities, but also in terms of overall academic standards.

When Dr. Hannah became president July 1, 1941, enrollment stood at 6,355. Today, its student body numbers about 15,000 students, ranking MSC as the 10th largest university in the nation.

Particularly noteworthy during 1941-51 was President Hannah's establishment of the Basic College in 1944 and the Continuing Education Service in 1948, the CES being set up for expanded statewide services to the people of Michigan. Entrance into the Big Ten in 1949 was another mark of distinction for Michigan State.

The 45-year old president is generally considered one of the top spokesmen for American education both on the subjects of general guidance and federal government relations and international education.

He served as president of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities during 1949 and as chairman of the executive committee in 1950. When he was elected to serve a second term as executive committee chairman of the ALGCU in 1951, he became the first college president ever to be accorded this honor.

Dr. Hannah is a member of the 12-man advisory board for President Truman's Point Four program.

The advisory board includes top officials representing American industry, education, labor, agriculture and government.

Farming has moved up from 4th to 3rd place as the most dangerous way of making a living. About 65 of every 100,000 agricultural workers are killed accidentally every year. Only the construction, mining and quarrying trades had higher occupational death rates.

Coal was first mined in the United States near Richmond, Va., about the year 1706.
