WANTED TO RENT — A liberal reward will be given for a lead or information on a person who has been in the area of the O.P.S. last week we mentioned the only way to give a pig an inferiority complex was by letting him have a squint at today's best prices. So along comes Tuesday this week and the O.P.S. raises the price of pork from five to six cents per pound.

It's a lucky thing for us and for you that these people down at South Bend don't read these efforts of ours too closely, or the first thing you know, they'd raise the price on our beautiful '51 Studebaker of ours, every time we told you what a truly wonderful car it is. You'd be amazed, too, if you've never driven one before! How they could put so much motor, so much room and so much comfort into one single car, is the miracle of the '51 season. We're a bit worried though, now that the police are going to crack down on these "hot-rodders". They may look with askance at a Studebaker, or two, every time the car jumps away when the lights turn green. Such pickup isn't supposed to be possible in a stock car, but it just comes naturally to the '51 Studebaker V-8 Commander. Try it!

Some people choose the most peculiar time to do their worrying. On the hottest day we've had this year, a customer of ours was bothered about the heating problem for next winter. "Been reading the paper," he says, "and there wasn't enough heating gas to go around. Besides which there most likely wouldn't be enough coal and it things kept up the country would have to go back to using wood in the furnaces." But as we said, it was too hot for him to help him worry and besides we feel that there is no fuel like an oil fuel.

Besides, we're more interested in keeping things cool and a shot of new oil and other lubricants to your car right now will help keep the moving parts a lot cooler in the hot weather ahead. If you look with askance at a complete lubrication and a bit of tune-up service for greater driving comfort this summer. Then, too, if your car has parking lot blues... a rumpled interior or two... a bump in the bumping and painting department can hide wrinkles more expertly than a forty year old chorus girl.

Gotta go now, but a tourist was in the shop the other day, telling us that things were pretty tough in his home town. "Gotta go," he says, "but a neighbor of mine has started eating his breakfast before going to bed, just to keep from waking up all night wondering where his next meal is coming from."

ROLLING DOWN THE RIVER

There must be more people reading this bit of a column than we had hoped, including members of the O.P.S. Last week we mentioned the only way to give a pig an inferiority complex was by letting him have a squint at today's best prices. So along comes Tuesday this week and the O.P.S. raises the price of pork from five to six cents per pound.
