

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

narcotic traffic is intricately interlaced and skillfully interwoven. BUREAU IS MODEL.

We have 135 agents; less than 2 per cent of the federal enforcement personnel. These men account for 10 per cent of the federal prison population, and their convictions average 95 per cent. Our force is about as large as that of the police department in a place the size of Tampa, Florida.

The whole world regards the U. S. Treasury Department's Bureau of Narcotics as a model. The work is dangerous, nerve racking, round-the-clock, yet there is something which makes it crusade.

Electrostatic duster developed for farmers

This farmer is holding two apples which were dusted with the same amount of insecticide. The apple on the right had insecticide blown on it from a conventional dusting machine. The heavily coated one on the left was dusted by a new electrostatic process developed by agricultural engineers at Michigan State College. As it leaves the duster's nozzle, dust is highly charged with electricity from special equipment carried on the farmer's tractor and is strongly attracted to plants or fruit, covering them underneath as well as on top. Laboratory tests have reported coverage up to eleven times greater than that accomplished with dusters not equipped with the electrostatic device. Information on this new electrostatic dusting process for insecticides or fungicides can be obtained from the Michigan State College Agricultural Engineering Department, East Lansing.

New battery helps telephone service

In Michigan, Bell's telephone central offices there are giant storage battery cells, some of them 5 feet high! They operate some of the telephone switching equipment, and provide power to carry your voice over telephone lines. Not long ago Bell Telephone Laboratories developed a new type battery which uses calcium instead of antimony as a hardener in the battery lead. It holds its charge five times longer, uses less water, goes many months without attention, and stands up many more years. Bell System research is one of the reasons why the most efficient telephone service in the world is yours for such little cost.
