Scotten Street, the Maurice Waacks conclude that their job is about done. Building, that is! Now, they have started to plan a Dutch-door here and a new wall there, which just proves the theory that not many people rest on their laurels for very long. And the fun of owning a house seems to involve how much work you can think up and how much mork you can think up and how much mork you can think up and how much mork you can think up and how much more you can spend on it.

but boring, says Mrs. Ritter, whose month in the hospital this fall was due to a major operation.

Spending a more pleasant month this fall were the George Buchanns, who took "the longest trip we have ever taken". Believe it, too, for, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. George Reynolds of Detroit they drove through at least 15 states in their trip to the west coast, covering 5,000 miles. New Orleans was visited on the back-home route and the Carlshad Caverns, after sighting all the wonders of the West, including Yosemite and, of course, Yellowstone National Park and surrounding points of its terest. They "rested" five days in Los Angeles, admitting the rim work states they may fing the trip and the work states they may fing the trip and the work states they may fing the trip and the work states they may fing the trip and the work states they may fing the trip and the work of t
