Macrame Offers Variety

Macrame -- that ancient knotting art of sailors -- has plenty of landlubber adherents these days, and it's gathering more all the time.

For who would have believed that the skill developed to make strong nets would be used for so many beautiful purses, belts, necklaces, wall hangings and baskets?

Mrs. Grace Kabel and Mrs.

Theresa Ohno, who work together in classes sponsored year-round by the Plymouth Fine Arts Council, say they find macrame is a relaxing hobby that affords "instant success."

Indian bead work is another related craft Mrs. Kabel enjoys, and she'll teach it any time enough people show an interest.
