

Game License Fees Unchanged

Michigan's 1972 big and small game licenses will be in the hands of 3,000 local dealers throughout the state this week, reports the Dept. of Natural Resources.

In winding up its last shipments of the licenses, the DNR points out that this year's hunting fees stand unchanged from last season:

RESIDENT: Small game, $5; deer (firearm), $7.50; deer (archery), $7.50; bear, $5.10; sportsman's, $18.50; senior deer (firearm), $1; and senior deer (archery), $1.

NON-RESIDENT: small game, $25; deer (firearm), $40; deer (archery), $20; and bear, $25.10.

The state's "all-purpose" sportsman's license for residents again carries the privileges of firearm and archery deer licenses—bear license, small game license and trapping license (except for beaver and other). It also covers all types of angling action for 1972.

Michigan's senior $1 deer licenses, one for the firearm season and the other for bow and arrow hunting, cover residents who have reached the age of 65.

Printing problems have forced a delay in the DNR's distribution of 1972 big and small game hunting rules to license dealers. However, this week the DNR will mail each of those dealers an instruction sheet for their counters which will provide deer license buyers with guidelines for filling out applications for antlerless deer permits.

HUNTERS HAVE until Oct. 1 to get their permit requests in the mail to the DNR.

The only antlerless area that applicants will find on the upper peninsula's map for this season is the southern part of Menominee County (Area 12) below US-2. Its antlerless quota stands conservatively at 640 animals, with 800 party permits available to groups of four hunters.

Some 23,000 permits are offered for the northern lower peninsula, where the antlerless quota has been cut in half from last season, down to less than 5,000 animals.

Some 19,000 permits are being offered for the southern lower peninsula in hopes of taking about 4,200 antlerless deer in that part of the state.

Overall, about 43,000 antlerless deer hunting permits are open to application through Oct. 1, as against some 89,000 last fall. Those permits are distributed among 37 of Michigan's 98 permanent deer management areas.

The remaining 61 areas will be limited to bucks-only hunting during the 1972 firearm deer season.

NELSON SCHRADER

Why not make your child's bedroom his private haven? Metal shaving makes a great room divider if you have two children in one large room. If you need light and air, make sure the shelving does not reach the ceiling. Beds that double as couches make the rooms comfortable and do not take up much room. Shelves are great for holding private treasures. The plan is especially good if one child is much older than the other. Dolls and make-up just do not seem to go well in close quarters!

Before you furnish your bedroom or any other room in your home, plan to visit SCHRADER'S HOME FURNISHINGS, INC., 526 Pennington, Plymouth, 453-8220 or 111 N. Center St., Northville, 349-1838. THE GASMAN COMETH (from the bayou)

The quest: more natural gas for Michigan's homes and industries. Consumers Power and its wholly owned subsidiary, Northern Michigan Exploration Company, are working to get more of it.

Exploration in southern Louisiana has produced encouraging results. In joint ventures with other producers, Northern Michigan Exploration Company has succeeded in finding new gas reserves. Pipelines will be built eventually to deliver this natural gas to Michigan.

This and other new discoveries of natural gas promise increased supplies of the premium fuel for more than 580,000 customers in Michigan.
