Letter To The Editor

A Theft Causes Grief

EDITOR:

I am writing this letter to the editor as I try to explain to my deaf son about the bad boys who came in the dark and stole the totem pole from our backyard. He knows that they came in the dark. He knows they left their footprints in the dirt. He can understand that the policemen came.

He cannot understand the whole story because there are not words to explain it to him. There are words, but he would not understand them.

to my husband on our 12th anniversary. It stood seven feet tall, had a hand in the sign of peace at the top, a face, a heart, and "LOVE" carved in the base area.

It was cut with a chain saw out of a single tree trunk by a dear friend. It occupied a spot in a garden area which I spent this summer developing.

It was embedded in a cement area which contained my husband's initials, but it is now gone.

I am not so upset with the financial cost of the pole. My friend has already told me he will carve another. I am trying to understand why it was stolen. Yes, it was tempting, a unique, one-of-a-kind item, but it was in my yard, on my property.

My husband is a lay minister and Sunday school teacher in our church, and we have two sons. I am a school teacher and a den mother to nine cub scouts.

and others to love one another, respect one another and each other's property. We try to create a pleasant home and we work many hours to do that.

We have put up a fence on our property because we have had bicycles, cars, and motorcycles come into it.

We are sorry that others do not respect property. If my sons damage something we would try to take care of it and hope they did not do it intentionally.

THE NINE - year - old would understand it in the words he has learned in school.

I hope that the boys who took the totem pole enjoy it. It is a lovely piece of work, but I will never be able to explain the theft to my dear son.
