

In Early Settings

Or come and watch a fashion show, sponsored by one of a group of local retailers, on Thursdays.

The red and white contemporary atmosphere is a favorite luncheon setting for groups of businessmen and professional people. Special facilities are used for the meetings of local service groups and other organizations.

Banquet accommodations are available for 200 people.

A good variety of steaks and sea food include the prime rib dinner for $6.75 and the roast duck at $4.95. Pretty parfaits layered with rainbow colors are a special dessert treat.

Owners Nick and Bob Masters will be glad to host your Thanksgiving Day dinner -- with all the trimmings -- for a kind-to-your-budget price of $4.95.

That's just one of the people-pleasing touches that makes Master's the kind of place that offers something for just about everyone.

Mushroom Specialties

You won't find such items just anywhere.

There's a special sauteed mushroom dish flavored with a wine and herb sauce and also mushroom caps stuffed with a special filling.

This devotion to mushrooms has given it its name -- the Golden Mushroom -- and it's been in business since only summer on 10 Mile near Southfield.

There's also a wonderful duck dinner in cherry brown sauce at $6.75 as well as a salad bar, decorated with hand-painted French tiles, from which diners can create their own salads from such goodies as chopped bacon and eggs, red onions, home-made croutons, cheese and a variety of crisp vegetables and five dressings.

The setting is French Provincial in warm colors of gold, brown and rust, and the menu is Continental. Every night you'll find "Something Special" -- a changing selection of unusual meals such as stuffed lobster, crabs rolled in a blanket of crepes, or scallops.

The chef is French born Martha Catturzza, who previously owned a pastry shop in France -- a good recommendation for the pastries she bakes now at "The Golden Mushroom" and which are passed about for dessert on a tray in the French manner.
