The usual rain was missing, but none of the Christmas spirit generated by the Farmington Goodfellows, who stood out in traffic Friday selling papers to insure no child goes without a Christmas.

The annual paper sale is the principal fund raiser for the Goodfellow Christmas baskets. The money raised will finance over 300 baskets for needy families.

The event is sponsored by the Farmington Exchange Club, with Jim Stevens as chairman.

SOS Starts In School

Students at Farmington High School initiated a new service Monday called Students Offering Services (SOS).

The students will provide free tutorial programs for other students, during study halls, lunch, and before and after school.

SOS was founded and supported by the student council, the counseling staff and the library staff. One staff member from each department will serve as consultant to aid tutors with any special problems.

Concert Scheduled For Junior High

FARMINGTON The Farmington Junior High School music department will present its annual Irving Berlin's "White Christmas," accompanied by the orchestra.

The concert choir will offer a selection of Christmas carols and conclude with "White Christmas," accompanied by the orchestra.

The concert band, under the direction of Don Ross, will perform "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by J.S. Bach and Jerry Blik's "Twelve Days of Christmas."

Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Featured will be the concert orchestra under the direction of Barbara Adams, playing "Christmas Festival" by LeRoy Anderson and "Yuletide Festival" by Warrington.
